250,000 RUSSIANS IN FRANCE AIDING BRITISH AND FRENCH IN CRUSHING BACK INVADERS

German Right Wing Swings Eastward Amid Desperate Fighting and the Allies Take Many Prisoners from Thinned Ranks of Foe.—Germans in Imminent Danger of Being Flanked.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 8.—A Russian army, said to number 250,000 men, is, according to the Rome Tribuna, in France. The Tribuna usually is considered well informed regarding Russian movements. Official confirmation of the report is refused at the Press Bureau.

Experts here are of the opinion that the Germans, who heretofore have been the outflankers, are in danger of being outflanked and of being compelled to accept a frontal attack from the allies, who now are on the offensive.

This titanic struggle, in which the combatants are tallied in millions is likely to ebb and flow for a week before decisive results are reached.

Great strategic importance is attached to the Russian capture of the fortress, Nicolaieff, in Austrian Galicia. It is situated at a junction of railroads and has strong bow shaped fortifications and entrenchments on both banks of the river Dniester to protect the railroad bridges. The population of this place is largely Polish. It includes 4,000 Jews and a garrison of approximately 10,000 men.

The news has been received here that the King of the Tonga Islands, in the southern Pacific ocean, has declared his neutrality. The Tonga Islands were in danger of starvation as their food supply from New Zealand was cut off until a ship was sent to the relief of the natives. The ship gave the King his first news of the war and the monarch promptly proclaimed his neutrality.

London, Sept. 8.—The public is waiting breathless, with the hope that the allies have finally taken to the offensive, but the cautious tone of the official communications issued from France indicates that the forward movement of the allies is only a feeler to ascertain the reason for the strange eastward swing of the German right.

No matter, however, what the forward movement may mean a decisive battle cannot be long postponed. Meantime the western valley of the Seine, recently overrun by Germans, has been cleared of the enemy and has been given a breathing spell.

The unexpected swing of the Germans has caused a readjustment of the line of the allies. The movement of the Germans was ascertained so promptly by the aeroplanes of the allies that abundant time was given to shift.

Another advantage enjoyed by the allies is the fact that their flanks are protected by the great fortresses of Paris and Verdun while in the German rear Maubouge is still held by the French despite the fall of three of its fortresses.

In the eastern war theater General Ruzsky's Stonewall Jackson tactics have been checked by the strong fortress of Przemyśl, but this delay will not prevent the general forward movement of the Russian forces along the border from Tilsit to Lemberg. The Russians consider it necessary, however, to capture Trzemyśl so that the Austrians may not have a single stronghold left in Galicia.

TEUTONS ARE FORCED BACK

Paris, September 8.—Violent encounters have occurred on the French center between Fere-Champenoise and Vitry-Le-Francois at the southern point of the Forest of Argonne. The French have fallen back nowhere. The Germans have lost ground.

ALLIES TAKE MANY PRISONERS

Paris, September 8.—French and English troops engaged in the battle now progressing to the east of the capital have taken numerous prisoners, including a battalion of German infantry and a company serving rapid fire guns. They also captured many guns.

TOO MUCH FOR FOE

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 8.—The leading military authorities of the city are convinced that General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, is at last holding at bay the vast German army of invasion. The worn-out troops of Emperor William, who may constitute an army totalling 750,000 men, are today encountering the relatively fresh soldiers of the French and British armies upon ground selected by the allies and in positions within easy reach of the supplies and reinforcements. The Germans are in a hostile country and at a distance relatively great from their home bases.

The invaders today are probably at their strength while the defenders of France, especially the British contingents, are being augmented steadily. The Germans are reported in Paris, unofficially, to have asked for an armistice to bury their dead and care for their wounded. This statement lacks official confirmation. It is further understood that the allies refused the request. The fighting on the long line to the east of Paris probably will last for a number of days; no quick and decisive outcome is expected.

The results of the encounters of the past two days are regarded as distinctly favorable to the allies and there is an atmosphere of cheerfulness at the French war office this evening.

250,000 RUSSIANS IN FRANCE

ROME, SEPT. 8.—ACCORDING TO THE ROME TRIBUNA THERE IS IN FRANCE TODAY A TOTAL OF 250,000 RUSSIAN TROOPS. THIS NEWSPAPER ATTRIBUTES EMPEROR WILLIAM'S PRESENCE AT METZ TO THIS CONCENTRATION OF THE RUSSIANS.

HERRICK OFFERS SOLUTION

Washington, September 8.—President Wilson took under consideration today a suggestion from Ambassador Herrick at Paris that the United States approach the powers in an effort to have their armies regard historic buildings, monuments and works of art as "international property." Ambassador Herrick cabled the suggestion after the diplomatic reports in France of several neutral countries had indicated their desire of their governments to support the project.

AUSTRIANS DESERTING THOUSANDS STRENGTHEN PARIS FORTS

By Associated Press.

Petrograd, Sept. 8.—Refugees and deserters from the armies of Austria in Galicia, according to information obtained in official quarters today, have told the Russian military authorities that their losses have been enormous. A number of Austrian regiments were decimated. The Austrians, according to these refugees, are fearful of an uprising in the crownland of Bukovina. There have been published here from individual newspaper correspondents, statements which confirm previous reports of the disorganization in the armies of Austria.

PRESIDENT FIXES DAY FOR PRAYER

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 8.—PRESIDENT WILSON TODAY SIGNED A PROCLAMATION CALLING ON THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES TO PRAY FOR PEACE IN EUROPE. THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION SETS ASIDE SUNDAY, OCTOBER 4TH AS A DAY OF PRAYER.

FORTS FALL

Paris, Sept. 8.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Petrograd says that the strong Austrian forts at Nicolaieff and Mikolajow, situated in Galicia, about 25 miles southwest of Lemberg, were captured by the Russians on Sept. 5.

TO AID HERRICK

Washington, Sept. 8.—At the request of Ambassador Herrick, Assistant Secretary Breckinridge, who heads the American relief expedition in Europe, will, for the present, remain in Paris to help in the care of refugees there, and in arranging for their transportation to the United States.

FRANCIS JOSEPH DEAD TWELVE DAYS, SAYS REPORT---RUSSIANS STILL ADVANCE INTO PRUSSIA

Many Days' Struggle Continues and Thousands Bite Dust—Belgians Unite With Russians to Fight the Germans—Allies Confident that Decisive Struggle is Close at Hand and Are Sure of Winning.

FRANCIS JOSEPH DEAD?

London, Sept. 8.—The African World, a weekly publication, has received information through what it regards as a reliable Austrian source to the effect that the Austrian emperor, Francis Joseph, died 12 days ago.

The news of the Emperor's death was suppressed in Austria-Hungary, the paper says, on account of the dangerous internal situation.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE STILL RAGING

London, September 8.—A dispatch from Rome to the Exchange Telegraph Company says: "A telegram from Vienna states that General Ruzsky who, following the capture of Lemberg executed a flank attack northward against the Austrians under General Auffenberg, the Austrian war minister, is today engaged in a desperate attempt to annihilate Auffenberg's army. The battle has already continued three days and is likely to continue several more.

BELGIANS JOIN WITH RUSSIANS

Paris, Sept. 8.—An agreement reached by the Belgian and Russian governments, according to the correspondent of the Havas Agency at Petrograd, authorizes Belgian reservists and recruits of 1914 to attach themselves to Russian armies.

The agreement referred to in the foregoing dispatch would appear to be in conformity with previous reports, notably today's from Rome, that Russian forces have landed in Belgium.

HOW U. S. TAX WILL BE RAISED

Washington, September 8.—Congress resumed work today after a brief holiday with a large amount of business awaiting action. Principal interest centers in the Emergency Revenue bill to provide $100,000,000. The committee was confronted with the task of raising $25,000,000, means having been agreed upon to raise $75,000,000 by increasing taxes on beer, malt liquors, domestic wines, soft drinks and similar commodities. Numerous suggestions were before the committee today for raising the $25,000,000 in revenues. They include taxes on automobiles, amusement tickets, moving picture films, magazines and weekly publications, circulars, railroad transportation, gasoline, whiskies and other distilled liquors, inheritance, incomes, tobacco, etc.

ALLIES CLAIM THE ADVANTAGE

Washington, September 8.—The French Embassy today received from Bordeaux under last night's date the following: "The German right wing (first army) on the Ourcq and Grand Morin have been attacked with advantage to our troops. The line of battle today became general. The Campine (Belgian) and the Limbourg have been evacuated. Transports of German troops from the west to the east are reported from several sources. The fact that at the time of the capture of Lemberg 12 Austrian divisions were annihilated is confirmed.

SECOND AUSTRIAN ARMY ON DEFENSIVE

Washington, September 8.—A dispatch to the British Embassy from the London foreign office states that the "Second Austrian army," operating in Lublin region, is suffering very serious losses and is now acting on the defensive and in places has retreated.

French Troops Strongly Supported by the British Soldiers Who Passed Through Paris Several Days Ago. Portion of German Forces Said to Have Retired Early in the Engagement—Essence of French War Office's Bulletin.

Paris, Sept. 8.—Taken in the flank by the Anglo-French troops, the German right wing is retreating all along the 120 mile line from Nanteuil-le-Haudouin to Verdun, where one of the most important battles of the war has been fought since Sunday, according to a war office bulletin.

Nanteuil-le-Haudouin is twenty-five miles northeast of Paris, in the department of Oise. Verdun, in the department of Meuse, is a great French fortress twenty miles from the German frontier. Unofficial advices from Berlin confirm reports of desperate engagements in these regions.

The number of men engaged is not disclosed by the war office, but unofficial sources estimate the total opposing forces at 1,000,000. The French troops were strongly supported by the British soldiers who passed through Paris several days ago.

The position chosen by the allied forces to give battle to the advancing invaders is declared to have been most favorable, having near its center the strongly entrenched camp at Chalons-sur-Marne.

The allies conducted their operations so successfully that a portion of the German forces were forced to retire early in the engagement. The Germans had reached the region around Coulommiers and Le Ferte-Gaucher, respectively thirty and forty miles to the east of Paris, when the detachments covering the flanks of the main German army encountered advanced detachments of the allies, who drove them back.

It has been suggested by military experts that General Von Kluck's movement to the southeast was taken as a matter of precaution before the movement by the allies from the coast.

More than 200 men perished when the British cruiser Pathfinder was blown up by a mine in the North sea. Only her captain and fifty of the crew were saved of a total of 270 men on board. The mine was of such tremendous power that it literally blew the warship to pieces.

A Paris dispatch says the French and British armies, reunited after the long retreat of the left wing from Maubeuge to Paris, gave battle to the Germans and defeated them in the first stages of the conflict. The retreat of the Germans is being harassed by the French in pursuit, who are keeping up a constant artillery fire on the enemy.

The struggle which may decide the war, so far as France is concerned, rages from Nanteuil to Verdun. Nanteuil is twenty-five miles from Paris. Wounded soldiers were being brought into Paris.

The French war office gave out this statement: "A general action has started on the line through Nanteuil-le-Haudouin, Meaux, Sezanne and Vitry-le-Francois, and extending to Verdun. Thanks to the very vigorous action of our troops, strongly supported by the British, the Germans started retreating."

Germany's army has its back turned to Paris, say the French, and is being pursued by the French and British. The enemy is moving to the northeast, apparently to join the German center army.

BRITONS PREPARE

London, Sept. 8.—Remote as seems the possibility of a German invasion of England, preparations for such a contingency are proceeding ceaselessly. Every young man in the country is doing something to safeguard the nation. Those not already in the army or preparing to enlist are performing civil duties. Virtually every motorcyclist gives part of his time to the national service. Coast defenses are becoming stronger every day against attack from sea or air.

Nor do the women folk confine themselves to sewing shirts, knitting socks, making bandages and attending the wounded. Mrs. Haverfield, the wife of a British officer, for instance, is forming a women's volunteer corps for home defense. The members of the corps are drilling, rifle shooting and route marching.

GERMANS SAY CHINA TO BLAME

Peking, Sept. 8.—Protesting to the foreign office against its note of Sept. 3 to the diplomatic representatives in Peking, and referring to the transgression of Chinese neutrality by the landing of Japanese troops at Lungkow, Baron Von Maltzan, the German charge d'affaires, declared that Germany would hold China responsible for permitting Japanese and British soldiers to cross her territory.

KING'S OWN REPORTED SMASHED

Crown Prince of Germany in Their Midst.

London, Sept. 8.—A Boulogne dispatch says a telegram has been received from General Pau announcing a victory by the allied forces at Precy Sur Oise. The imperial guard under Crown Prince Frederick William is reported to have been annihilated by the British force opposing them.

The Evening News dispatch says: "A telegram has been received from General Pau announcing a victory by the allied forces under Field Marshal Sir John French, commanding the British, and General D'Amade at Precy Sur Oise, about twenty-five miles north of Paris. The allies were drawn across the northern line with the center at Precy. The English troops were on the left and the French on the right. The former had in front of them the imperial guard under Crown Prince Frederick William. On both wings, it is reported, the allies were successful. The German left was held by the French and retired to the north. The imperial guard, who were ordered to surrender, were annihilated by the British. It is reported that the crown prince was in their midst."

The British official bureau has received no confirmation of this message.

CRUISER CRIPPLED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The stranding of the British cruiser Warrior, reported to the German embassy in a wireless message from Berlin, remains a mystery. The message read: "British cruiser Warrior stranded probably as a result of a fight with the cruiser Goeben while escaping from the Bosphorus." The Goeben is a German vessel which, with the Breslau, escaped from British pursuers at the time the war began and sought refuge in the Dardanelles.

FORESIGHT vs. HINDSIGHT

There's a story in the little old story books for children about the brother squirrels which is always impressive.

It runs that one of the squirrels played all through the summer and fall and neglected to store up his winter supplies or gather the snug, warm lining for his nest.

The other played betimes, but also worked, and when the chill wintry blasts came and in their wake the hail and sleet and snow, he was prepared.

The playful, happy-go-lucky squirrel became a tramp and beggar, and during the long hard winter, while he suffered the pangs of cold and of hunger, he looked back on the days when he had played while he should have worked.

The squirrel with fore-sight snuggled into his warm nest with his store of sweet nuts, gathered because of thought of bad weather that was to come, and was happy and care-free. The other suffered and he learned his lesson.

SECOND AUSTRO ARMY CRUSHED

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—Crushing defeat for the second Austrian army between the Vistula and Bug rivers, in the Lublin district, Russian Poland, and the imminent fall of Przemyśl fortress, fifty miles west of Lemberg, Galicia, are announced in official bulletins. Terrific fighting between armies numbering 1,500,000 men on both sides has been taking place continuously in Lublin since the rout of the first Austrian army corps in Galicia Sept. 2.

The following official announcement was given out: "The Austrian army corps between the river Vistula and the river Bug are retreating with enormous losses. The resistance of the enemy has been broken. There are evidences of the possibility of a famine in Austria."

FIFTEEN INJURED

Fremont, O., Sept. 8.—Fifteen persons were more or less seriously injured when a heavily laden car on the Postoria and Fremont interurban line crashed into a crowded car ahead when the first car stopped to let off passengers at a road a mile south of town. Both cars were crowded with people en route to Fremont for the Labor day celebration. Among the injured are Mrs. Jess Earl, Postoria; Scott Morris, Charles Glatz, L. D. McDonald, William Edmunds and Mrs. Amber Ray.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Whooping Cough.
In the absence of complications children having whooping cough should be kept in the open air for twenty-four hours out of twenty-four. They should be well clad—clothing heavy enough to prevent chilling and light enough to prevent the child from becoming overheated or tired by the weight of the clothing. As long as the child has fever or is weak it should be kept in bed. The bed should be placed on a porch, in a tent, on the roof or in the yard. The sides of the tent should not be put down except for the purpose of keeping out rain. The matter of the treatment of the disease is one to be left to the physician attending the individual case. The cause of whooping cough is found in the sputum of persons having the disease. During the paroxysms of coughing this infected sputum is thrown a considerable distance. The first thing to do to prevent the spreading of this disease is to prevent the sputum of the sick being taken into the system of the well person. The sufferer should be provided with a quantity of soft paper napkins. As soon as they are soiled they should be burned. Everything which has come in touch with the patient should be sterilized before it is allowed to come in contact with other people or things which may be handled or used by other people.

FANS, BASEBALL BRAND.

Are Most of Them Imitations of the Newspaper Cartoon?

My own belief is that the fan, as the baseball writers and cartoonists have depicted him, is a very rare being. To the extent that he does exist he is the creation, not of the baseball diamond, but of the sporting writer and the comic artist. The fan models himself consciously upon the type set before him in his favorite newspaper. It is once more a case of nature imitating art.

If Mr. Gibson many years ago had not drawn a picture of fat men in shirt sleeves, perspiring freely and waving straw hats the newspaper artists would not have imitated Mr. Gibson, and the baseball audience would not have imitated the newspapers. It is true that I have seen baseball crowds in frenzy, but these have been isolated moments of high tension when all of us have been brought to our feet with loud explosions of joy or agony.

But the perspiring, ululant fan in shirt sleeves, ceaselessly waving his straw hat, uttering imprecations on the enemy, his enthusiasm obviously aroused by stimulants preceding his arrival at the baseball park, is far from being representative of the baseball crowd.—Simeon Strunsky in Atlantic Monthly.

Poetry For Today

SEPTEMBER.

September of the dewy morn,
How many men have called thee
blest!
And what new hope in us is born
When summer's heat is dispossessed!
The hills refreshed with autumn rain
Are fresh and cooling to the sight,
And lo! the harvest moon again
Makes bright and glorious the night.
How sweet and bracing is the breeze
—how wonderful the morning light!

The maple leaves are turned to gold,
The sumach glows upon the hill;
And all the rhapsodies of old
The hearts of men are singing still.
The fields are beautiful with corn,
The earth grows mellow with the feast,
And on the liquid wings of morn
The sun comes riding from the East
Through all the centuries of time thy wizardry has never ceased.

How far through stress and faint of heart
We came to happiness in thee,
And what sweet tears of gladness start
For thought of comradeship to be!
The sunlight has a softer cast,
The woodland paths are lit with red,
And once again the birds are massed
In flying legions overhead.
September, thou art life again, when
all but hope in us was dead.

Meeting Conditions Squarely.

President Wilson has asked Congress to provide ways and means to make good the decrease in the governmental receipts occasioned by the tremendous shrinkage in import receipts.

All Europe is at war and its factories are closed, the high seas are closed to commerce and European made goods subject to tariff duties therefore, are not arriving at our ports of entry consequently the tariff laws fail to produce enough to maintain the expense of government.

Something must be done or the nation would experience a deficit as its receipts are below its expenditures under present plans.

Following his usual custom the President did not leave Congress in the dark as to the necessities nor as to the desires of the administration. He went in person to Congress and delivered his message, called attention to conditions and submitted his recommendations.

It is the idea of President Wilson to provide means to meet the extraordinary conditions which the country now faces by an increase in the internal revenue tax.

Of course the present tariff schedules framed, after so much labor, after such violent opposition and under such vastly different conditions, could be increased. There is nothing sacred about tariff schedules—they can be and should be reduced or increased as conditions demand—but high tariff schedules are so difficult to reduce because so many special privileges take root under the fostering care of a high protective tariff, that the President was loath to go back to higher tariff schedules as a means to secure the needed increase in receipts, and boldly suggested an increase in the internal revenue tax.

In taking that course, fearlessly advocating a tax much more direct and much more easily recognized than a tariff tax, President Wilson furnished a splendid example of the higher statesmanship and the higher politics of today.

Some of his party colleagues feared that the imposition of a heavier revenue tax, in view of the proximity of the fall elections, would be disastrous in its effect on the party.

Choosing the high ground of honesty with the people and scorning that political expediency which has for its purpose concealment of true conditions and real motives, the President insisted that the tariff schedules ought not to be raised, that the people should know the facts and knowing them that they would gladly bear the burden.

Complete accord with the plan has already been announced by the people of the nation.

The money needed will be raised and only economy in its expenditure insisted upon.

The President's strength is to be found in his frankness in dealing with public questions and in taking the American people into his full confidence.

The President demonstrated again in his position on this important question that he is a leader among the statesmen who believe in facing conditions squarely, and asking the people to solve them in a way best in the long run, regardless of the political expediency of the moment.

No Nobler Work For Peace Than Vigorous Support of Neutral Rights

By ELLERY C. STOWELL, Assistant Professor International Law, Columbia University

IN this terrible situation it is for the United States to stand firm and resist all encroachments on neutral rights. If, as seems probable, Great Britain and her allies are able to bottle up the German fleet Great Britain and France will be ready to seize any excuse for interfering with consignments of food to Germany. Of course they are perfectly justified in capturing any shipment to blockaded ports, but ONLY BELLIGERENT PORTS MAY BE BLOCKADED, and we should still be free to ship supplies to neutral Italy, Holland, Norway and Denmark. If, however, the sea is strewn with mines it would take a venturesome vessel to make the latter trip. Unless the belligerents are very careful this situation may give rise to friction for control of the sea.

IT WILL NATURALLY BE DIFFICULT FOR THE UNITED STATES AS AN ISOLATED NEUTRAL IN THE PRESENT WAR TO SECURE ADEQUATE PROTECTION FOR NEUTRAL RIGHTS, BUT THIS MAKES IT ALL THE MORE IMPORTANT FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF HUMANITY. ANY VIOLATIONS OF NEUTRAL RIGHTS WHICH THE BELLIGERENTS MAY PRACTICE IN THIS WAR WOULD CONSTITUTE A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT FOR THE FUTURE. THERE COULD BE NO NOBLER WORK FOR PEACE THAN A VIGOROUS SUPPORT OF NEUTRAL RIGHTS. IF IN THIS GREAT STRUGGLE NEUTRAL RIGHTS SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO SINK TO THE LOW EBB OF THE NAPOLEONIC CONFLICT IT WOULD BE A STAGGERING BLOW TO CIVILIZATION, ALREADY SUFFERING FROM THE HORRORS OF THIS WORLD CONFLICT. IN THIS CRISIS IT IS A COMFORT TO FEEL THAT WE HAVE A POWERFUL NAVY TO PROTECT THE HIGHER INTERESTS OF MANKIND.

NEED OF FAT AS FOOD.

No Difference to the System From What Source It is Obtained.

The trees in a Syrian garden are an important and practically necessary part of the nutrition of the people. Combined with grain in the form of coarse bread, the tree products make a balanced and wholesome ration. For large elements of the population, at least one meal a day is commonly composed of bread and walnuts. The walnut is rich in both protein and fat, so that this combination virtually duplicates in nutrition our occidental sandwich of bread, butter and meat.

The oil to which the scriptural writers so lovingly referred is still important in that land, and the olive tree that produces it is almost as useful to the Syrian as the cow is to the American. The cow gives butter and drink, and the olive tree gives butter and food. When the workman on the Mediterranean goes home for a day's labor, he often takes a pocketful of olives and a piece of bread for his lunch. Remove butter, breakfast bacon and fat meat from our vocabulary, put olive oil in their place and we shall begin to think the thoughts of Mediterranean cooks.

Once cooks and palates are educated, the blood does not know the difference between the rich globules of fat that come to it. It is fat that the human system wants, and it makes no final difference whether it comes from butter, bacon, lard, olive, coconut, goose or bear. Fat is fat, once it is in our blood. The source from which we shall get this fundamental of nutrition depends in part upon our bringing up, but eventually our getting it depends upon the ease of winning it from our environment.—Atlantic Monthly.

Love's

Faithful Haven

To Its Shelter Came the Erring One.

By MARIA CLIFFWORTH.

Mrs. Ferry sat upright in her favorite rockerless chair sewing a strand of braided rugs into a rug. Braided rugs were Mrs. Ferry's hobby.

To be sure, she and Anna Jane were the only people in the house, and visitors came very seldom, but to Mrs. Ferry that was no reason why she should keep her carpets covered.

The room was growing dim, for night fell early. This having to light up at half past 4 was a great drain on the oil can, but there are times when one cannot see even with two pairs of spectacles astride one's nose. She leaned forward and called:

"Anna Jane!"

Anna Jane came scurrying downstairs, stumbling over the braided rug at the top of the flight and almost losing her balance and tumbling over the braided rug at the foot.

"What have you been doing upstairs all this time?" Mrs. Ferry demanded, looking at her sharply. She had a notion that Anna Jane had been crying. "You'd better go to the postoffice right away if you're going."

Anna Jane took down her faded old jacket and limp hat. "Shall I light the lamp before I go?" she asked timidly.

"I guess not. I ain't in such a terrible hurry as you be to burn up the last bit of oil there is in the house. That's because I have to buy it, maybe."

She set her old mouth grimly. Anna Jane hurried into her things without another word.

There was really nothing to go to the postoffice for. She had gone four days now in succession without receiving anything from the hands of the impatient clerk. Yet, rain or shine, Anna Jane must make her daily pilgrimage to the postoffice.

It never occurred to her to rebel against this or any other task Aunt Hulda set her. Aunt Hulda had been very good, she thought, to take her in when she was left a little helpless girl without parents or friends.

She had a childish memory of the time Aunt Hulda came to get her. She believed Aunt Hulda had favored her sister Tilly more, for Tilly was older and far prettier.

Tilly married early and well. When she had been married five years she suddenly remembered Anna Jane and sent for her to visit her. Anna Jane went and had the time of her life. Tilly was very good to her, but inclined to make fun of her old fashioned ways of dress and manner.

"Anna Jane," she said, "you've got to do your hair different and wear something besides that made over black dress of Aunt Hulda's. I'm going to get you a pink lawn, and when it's made I'll give you a party."

Anna Jane gasped with delight. The evening of that party and the first wearing of the pink lawn was the most memorable of her life, for that evening she met him. No man had ever before paid her any attention, and her little head was quite turned. He came to call the next evening, and the next, and the next. Of a sudden he had grown wonderfully friendly with the Martins, and Tilly understood. She worked with might and main to make the match, and when Anna Jane went home she was engaged.

Anna Jane was to be married from Aunt Hulda's house, and she set to work upon her simple trousseau. Aunt Hulda, grown suddenly generous, helped her, and Tilly sent $10 to buy the wedding dress. Anna Jane lived in a heavenly dream. He wrote every week, and she wrote back every week.

Then his letters began to lag, and at last came silence. Anna Jane wept and wondered. She could do nothing. Even Tilly could not for a long time find out what was the trouble. But when she did she wrote her sister.

"He's married!" she raged. "He married that Convers girl that was here at your party. She always wanted him, and now she's got him. They went to the justice a month ago and were married on the sly. I wouldn't believe it till I had it right from her own mouth, the impudent thing!"

Poor Anna Jane! She packed away her wedding things with a dazed look in her eyes that never after left them. Aunt Hulda sighed and sighed.

She seemed to feel that Anna Jane was all to blame and treated her accordingly.

But there were times when the burden pressed more heavily upon her than at others, and tonight was one of them. Her voice trembled as she stood at the general delivery window and put the worn question:

"Any mail for Mrs. Hulda Ferry, please?"

The clerk snatched a package of letters from a pigeonhole and thumbed them hurriedly. Then he shook his head, and Anna Jane, with fresh humiliation upon her, turned away.

The storm had increased, and in the faint light the sidewalk was slippery. A big man with an umbrella, whose hat brim was turned down and whose coat collar was turned up, saw her.

"Look out!" he cried gruffly. He caught her by the arm and helped her. Anna Jane dropped her head, with a gasp of thanks. He held the umbrella la over her and walked silently at her side, shielding her generously from the driving storm.

When she turned the corner he turned it with her. It was a most unusual proceeding. Anna Jane was not used to receiving such courtesies. She wondered who he was, but she did not dare look into his face to see. Presently he spoke again gruffly:

"I'm looking for Mrs. Hulda Ferry. Can you tell me where she lives?"

Anna Jane jumped. "Why, yes, I can," she said. "I'm going right to her house now. I live with her."

"Oh, do you?" said the man. "Then I'll accompany you home."

He did not speak again, nor did Anna Jane. When they reached Mrs. Ferry's little low house Anna Jane went up the steps, and he followed.

He tore open his long ulster and threw off his hat.

"Anna Jane," he said, "don't you know me?"

Anna Jane tipped uncertainly, and he caught her and put her in a chair.

"I've scared you most to death, and I didn't mean to," he said regretfully.

"Anna Jane," he went on earnestly, "my wife's dead. I did a foolish thing by myself and a wicked one by you when I married her, but that's bygones and can't be helped now. I'm ten years older and a good deal wiser. And I've come to see if—if you won't forgive me and let me have another chance. It's the only thing that's of any account to me now on earth, for, Anna Jane, I love you."

He knelt down before her and put his head in her lap. Anna Jane sat like a stiff little statue. She looked down at the big head in her lap and the big man kneeling before her who asked her forgiveness and said he loved her.

She lifted her hand and let it fall upon his hair. He felt the touch and looked up.

"Anna Jane," he said, "if you don't believe me, if you can't trust me, I'm willing to pass the rest of my life trying to make you—if you'll only give me a chance."

A wan little smile went over Anna Jane's face, but it was like the first spring sunshine, and life and joy followed it.

"Anna Jane"—he began again.

Slow footsteps creaked over the floor of the next room. The door opened, and Aunt Hulda, standing there, saw the strange spectacle of her niece in the arms of a stranger who seemed to have just been kissing her. Anna Jane's face was alight. She was no longer afraid of Aunt Hulda or of anything in the world. Her voice rang out with a glad little cry:

"Oh, Aunt Hulda, Joe's come! Joe's come!"

But it was left for Joe to make the necessary explanations.

Food In Flour Form.

Powdered eggs and powdered milk are being made by an apparatus that was really invented to stop the smoke nuisance in the great smelters of the west and dust nuisance in cement mills. The inventor, Dr. F. G. Cottrell, developed a system of using electric currents—shooting through the chimney gases, for instance—to make the tiny particles of matter settle to the bottom instead of sailing off as smoke. Later his process is being applied to many industries, the powdering of eggs being the latest. The eggs are sprayed in a big chamber and the electricity, shooting through, causes the little particles of egg to fall on the floor as dust. The powdering of other foods is being undertaken also, so that almost all foods may be obtainable one of these days as a dry flour.—Saturday Evening Post.

INVITATION EXTENDED FOR RETURN OF REV. F. E. ROSS

Resolutions Lauding Dr. W. D. Cherington and Inviting Return of Rev. F. E. Ross to M. E. Church Unanimously Adopted Last Night—Church Membership No. 1319 With More Than 300 Added During Past Two Years.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the official board of Grace M. E. church, held in the parlors of the church Monday night, a resolution was unanimously adopted requesting Dr. Cherington to use his influence with Bishop Thirkield to secure the return of Rev. Frederick E. Ross to Grace church for the coming Conference year.

Another resolution was unanimously adopted commending Dr. Cherington, the outgoing superintendent of the Chillicothe district, for his Christian character and successful administration, and expressing the deep regard in which he is held by the membership of Grace M. E. church.

Dr. Cherington has been superintendent of the Chillicothe district for the past six years, the full term permitted under the rules of the church, and it is with sincere regret that the district loses Dr. Cherington after the coming Conference in this city. His successor will be announced when the other appointments are made public.

At the board meeting Monday night the church work of the year was carefully reviewed and various matters of importance disposed of, including all of the business for the Conference year just ending.

The pastor's report showed 139 additions to the church during the year just closed, bringing the total membership up to 1319—an increase of considerably more than 300 members during the past two years, marking one of the greatest growths in the history of Grace church.

During his pastorate in this city Rev. Ross has proven himself an able and persistent worker to promote all lines of church work, and the increase in membership bears evidence of the activity which has marked his two years as pastor of Grace M. E. church.

ANOTHER ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Lena M. Hidy has filed action in common pleas court for a divorce from Chas. D. Hidy, charging the defendant with extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty.

They were married December 7, 1909, according to the plaintiff, and the defendant soon afterward began to curse, abuse and threaten her, and that August 8, 1914, defendant struck at her and would have struck her a heavy blow if he had not hit the screen door. At that time she left him, and now asks that she be given a divorce, restored to her maiden name, and given reasonable alimony. Rankin and Rankin represent the plaintiff in her action.

ANNUAL COUNTY CONVENTION OF THE WHITE RIBBONERS

Full of enthusiasm and zeal for the accomplishing of great work in the interest of the Temperance movement the W. C. T. U. annual county convention held session in the Presbyterian church, this city Tuesday.

Forty acting delegates with a large number of visiting delegates from both Fayette and Madison county were in attendance and it was throughout a convention of stirring interest.

Mrs. Alice H. Taggart, president of the County W. C. T. U., presided with perfect ease and the parliamentary decision, which influenced more than one in the audience to pronounce her the best parliamentarian that had ever presided at local woman's meetings.

The morning session of the convention opened with the singing of the crusade hymn and devotional exercises.

When the roll was called each woman who wore the white ribbon responded to the question, "Why am I here?" and the answers "duty and interest" gave added inspiration to the day.

The report of the corresponding secretary, Miss Icy Allen, of Jeffersonville, was received with great applause and showed the unions all in good working conditions, with nearly 400 enrolled in the various unions of the county. One Y. P. B. was reported at Madison Mills and three L. T. L. at Madison Mills, Cooks and Good Hope.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Carrie B. Willis, was also gratifying, showing over $100 in the treasury after all expenses paid. The various departments made excellent reports.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Alice H. Taggart, of Jeffersonville; corresponding secretary, Miss Icy Allen, of Jeffersonville; recording secretary, Mrs. Laura Pine, of Sugar Creek; treasurer, Mrs. Carrie B. Willis, of Washington C. H.

The convention felt privileged to have in its sessions, Miss Mary Ervin, of Cedarville; secretary Loyal Temperance Legion, who is engaged in the work of enlisting children and young people for the temperance cause. She made a short talk in the morning and as we go to press is making the principal address of the day.

The afternoon's service opened with a memorial service in honor of Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens, national president.

NEW RESIDENCE IN CONSTRUCTION

Another handsome new modern home was started on Washington avenue this week, making the seventh house that is now in course of construction on that popular thoroughfare.

Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Clemans, who now live on a farm west of New Holland purchased a building lot from Walter Clark adjoining the Capt. E. A. Ramsey new home on the west. The contract for a modern 6-room house was immediately closed and work was started at once, the house to be completed by November 15. The deal was made through the real estate agency of Dalbey & Hitchcock.

FINE ADDRESS BY NATIONAL LECTURER

One of the ablest speakers before the public today, Mrs. Florence D. Richards, National lecturer and organizer for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and state president of the W. C. T. U., delivered a fine lecture that held the absorbed interest of a large audience at the Presbyterian church Monday night.

The address was a strong plea for state-wide and national prohibition and woman's suffrage, interspersed with amusing illustrations and parodies.

Mrs. Richards dwelt on the suffrage movement and its possibilities for the advancement of the cause of temperance.

She said that liquor advocates had pushed the vote on prohibition this year fearing that another year would mean that they must contend against the women vote. The speaker pro-

In Social Circles

The last in a series of extremely pretty pre-nuptial affairs in compliment to Miss Nina Bonham was given by Miss Emily Tanzey Monday evening.

Three tables of guests engaged in a game of "500," after which the attractive young hostess served one of the bean suppers for which she has established quite a reputation. It was a delicious supper, out of the ordinary and merriment galore served as sauce for the pudding. As a climax to the supper a big wedding cake was brought in and amid gay laughter Miss Charlotte Dahl found the ring and Miss Prudence Culhan the dime. It was a foregone conclusion that the entire crowd was elected to matrimony as no one found the thimble.

A graceful basket of lavender and white asters adorned the center of the table.

At the close of the supper the bride-to-be was surprised with a "Kitchen shower" providing her with generous culinary equipment for the new home which is now in readiness at Oakley, a suburb of Cincinnati. Miss Bonham thanked the givers with becoming blushes. She was wearing a smart gown of dark blue crepe de chine with corded silk vest and Medici color of white, and plaited tunic. Miss Tanzey wore white embroidered crepe.

The guests included Misses Charlotte and Nina Dahl, Culhan, Pine, Jones, Lanum, Wright, of Wooster, Mrs. George Worrell and Mrs. Carl Mallow.

Mr. Frank Bonham arrived from Cincinnati Tuesday morning to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss Nina Bonham, Wednesday night. Mr. Scott Bonham comes up from Cincinnati tonight.

Mr. J. L. Draise and daughter, Miss Emma, were the guests of Mrs. S. V. Draise and family near Mt. Sterling Sunday.

Miss Lou Fultz, of Jeffersonville, one of the public school teachers, will make her home with her cousin, Mrs. W. W. DeWees, for the winter.

Miss McCloud, of Delaware, is one of the new teachers arriving for the fall opening of the public school.

Washington friends of Miss Clara Barr, of Greenfield, who has been traveling in Europe with a party this summer, are glad to learn of her safe arrival at her home. Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Barr met their daughter in Boston, Mass., last Tuesday. Miss Barr experienced money difficulties and the inconveniences felt by all Americans in Paris. The trip home was also one of anxiety, as the boat built to accommodate 900, was taxed to its utmost by 1300 passengers.

Miss Maude Chester, Domestic Science Teacher in the public schools, has returned from her home in Urbana and will make her home for the winter with Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe.

Misses Florence and Lily Flynn, of Chillicothe, were the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer the past two days.

Miss Elizabeth Sheen arrived from Montrose, Pa., Monday, to resume her position as supervisor of music in the public schools.

Mrs. James Green returned Monday evening from Chillicothe, where she was called by the illness and death of her sister, Miss Susan Butler, the deceased frequently visited her sister and has many friends in this city, who will learn of her death with much regret.

Miss Marie Grove has returned from Urbana to resume her position as art teacher in the public schools.

Misses Mazie Priddy and Margaret Willett, of Greenfield, were the guests of Miss Ethel Priddy over Sunday.

Messrs. John Fisher, Link Murphy and George Ireland, of Wilmington, are guests of Washington friends.

Miss Roxie Stinson has returned from a summer's outing at Cedar Point.

Mrs. James Morrow, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. W. Shoop, left Monday for her home in Waukegan, Ill. Miss Bess Shoop accompanied her sister back to Waukegan, where she has accepted the position of teacher in the public schools teaching the same grade she taught last year.

SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED LIFE

Charging her husband, Jesse Gray, with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, Gertrude Gray, through her attorneys, Rankin and Rankin, has filed suit for divorce, alimony and enjoyment of the defendant that he may not dispose of certain property in which she is interested, or which belongs wholly or in part to the plaintiff.

Plaintiff charges that in 1913 the defendant threatened to kill her, and that he had a gun in his hand with which to shoot her. At that time, claims the plaintiff, the defendant forced her and her son to leave the premises.

Plaintiff also claims that they had resided at the plaintiff's home, and that the defendant collected a large sum of money due herself, and has it in his possession, and that he has threatened to sell her property, for which she asks a restraining order be granted.

The Washington Meat Market will have fresh fish and oysters tomorrow.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED WHILE CONNECTING WIRES

Harry Ewick, Employee of the Washington Gas and Electric Company, Meets Sad Fate While on Top of Pole Making Splice at Leesburg—2300 Volts Pass Through His Body—Fellow Workman Risks Life To Save Companion.

Harry Ewick, aged 28, an employee of the Washington Gas & Electric Company of this city, met death in a horrible manner while working with wires of high voltage at Leesburg, late Monday afternoon, 2300 volts of electricity passing through his body as he clung to the deadly wires at the top of a pole while making a connection for the circuit leading to the Chautauqua grounds at Leesburg.

Ewick, whose home is in Peebles, Adams county, came to this city and was employed by the Washington Gas & Electric Company Wednesday of last week.

Monday morning, in company with Messrs Joe Gillespie and Earl Speaks, Ewick went to Leesburg to string a line from the main wires to the Chautauqua grounds at that place.

All of the work had been completed with the exception of the splice to connect the Chautauqua lines with the main line. Ewick climbed the pole where the splice was to be made, remarking that he would have the work completed within five minutes. This was at 4:15 o'clock.

He stripped the insulation from one wire and connected it with one of the highly charged wires, and then stripped the second wire and made the connection in safety.

"When I last saw him before the accident," said Mr. Gillespie Tuesday morning while discussing the tragedy, "he had just taken hold of the last wire to straighten it. A moment later I heard him groan and, looking up, I beheld him gripping both of the deadly wires and the smoke of burning flesh was pouring from his hands."

When he realized what had taken place, Mr. Speaks literally ran up the pole and at the risk of his own life instantly cut the wires, which were sending 2300 volts through his companion's body.

A moment later Ewick fell limply upon the cross arm, the strap about his body and the pole preventing him from falling to the ground. Mr.

Speaks, with the assistance of Mr. Gillespie and others, hurriedly lowered the limp form to the ground and for two and one-half hours two physicians worked over the lifeless form in a vain attempt to restore respiration and heart action. Their efforts were of no avail, as death had apparently been almost instantly.

The palms of the man's hands were burned in a shocking manner, but there was no other mark upon him. He had formed a short circuit but how he came to grasp the two wires when he knew the death that lay between them, is and forever will remain a mystery.

The remains were taken to the office of an undertaker, and the man's relatives notified. A brother, Jess Ewick, an employee of the Washington Home Telephone Company, went to the scene at once, and relatives from Peebles hurried to the scene.

The remains will probably be sent to his late home in Peebles for interment.

COUNCIL SESSION PROVES VERY SHORT

The meeting of council lasted just long enough for roll call and taking action on a motion to adjourn, Monday night, and the next session will be held Monday night of the coming week.

Members Howell, Veal and Whelpley were absent, but the real reason for adjournment was an opinion from the City Solicitor that there might be some question of legality of action taken by Council on a holiday.

Complaint was to have been made to Council over the slow progress of work on Main street paving, where the street has been closed for weeks while no work has been done on the street. Citizens residing on the street and on the adjoining streets which are tied up by the blocked thoroughfare, are chafing under the non-action of the contractor, who has been unable to proceed because it was impossible to obtain the brick. Work is expected to begin within the next few days, and will be completed before the opening of another month, it is announced.

THE FATE OF PARIS HANGS ON RESULT

Germans Must Be Checked In Battle Raging Near Paris.

OPINION OF MILITARY EXPERTS

English Strategists Believe That the Germans' Wide Turning Movement Is Planned to Cut Paris Off From French Eastern Army and to Cut the Latter to Pieces—Kaiser Himself in the Field.

London, Sept. 8.—Military experts believe that the battle now being waged on a line east from Paris will have an enormous effect on the possible German investment of Paris, as well as upon the outcome of the German campaign against France. Some of the more hopeful military critics believe that the strategy of this move means no more than an attempt to protect the German rear and open up a retreat through the Meuse district. But others, who bear in mind the supreme aggressiveness of the German campaign against France, believe that the move is planned to cut Paris off from the French eastern army, and then with that army surrounded on three sides, the west, east and north, to cut it to pieces.

FRENCH ARE IN DANGER

Paris, Sept. 8.—The wide turning movement of the German flank near this city is believed to be caused by a fear on the part of the German general staff of attacking Paris while the French armies are intact. The danger of exposing their rear, in thus swinging around Paris in the hope of destroying the French army, is obvious, and the French are continuing to harass the Germans' front and rear. Shells fall continually in the rear of the swinging German army. The belief is growing that the present battle is of the utmost importance, particularly as regards the eastern lines of the French armies. If the fourth German army cuts off the retreat of the eastern French armies

ZEPATA NOT TO BE FOOLED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The Mexican Constitutional agency has issued this statement:

"Advice received by the agency from Mexico City are to the effect that the commission that Carranza sent to treat with Zapata in regard to the latter giving allegiance to the new government has reported to Carranza that, while the rebel chief of the south is in sympathy and accord with Carranza, he does not desire to give his formal allegiance until he is certain that the program of agrarian reforms for which he stands will be approved by the Constitutionalists."

"Zapata requested that Carranza adopt the plan of Ayala, which embodies a definite scope of action in regard to the land question, rather than the plan of Guadalupe, which is merely generic in its outline. Carranza in a reply to Zapata points out that he is bound to carry out the plan of Guadalupe, on which the revolution was based, and is not at liberty to adopt any other."

THREE DIE IN FLOOD

Kansas City, Sept. 8.—Many sections of Kansas City are under water because of the overflowing of Turkey creek. Three thousand homes, it is estimated, were flooded, and several hundred families were driven from their homes. Mrs. Sarah Wood was drowned, two men were killed when they came in contact with a broken trolley wire, a number were injured slightly and numerous thrilling rescues are reported. The total loss is estimated at about $1,500,000.

MRS. RICHARD CROKER IS DEAD

Dublin, Sept. 8.—Word was received here of the death in Austria of Mrs. Richard Croker, wife of the former leader of Tammany Hall.

EACH MADE A MISTAKE.

It Was, In Fact, a Case of "Turn About Is Fair Play."

Sam Showalter was having a sale of his surplus stock. To start the sale he led out a milk cow, one of the best of his herd, and told the auctioneer she was four years old. John Dawson, a long, leathery, weather beaten fellow with a shrewd eye, bid in the cow. He gave Showalter a check for the amount and said he would come for the cow the next day.

"I tell you, John," said Showalter when Dawson rode up the next morning to lead home his purchase, "I made a mistake yesterday. I said that cow was only four years old, but when I talked it over with the old woman last night I remembered that she is eight years old. It was another cow altogether that I had in mind."

"I didn't want to let a mistake like that go with a neighbor," continued Showalter, whose word was not usually accepted as entirely dependable in the community, "so I thought the fair thing to do was to tell you and just let you take your check back and I'll keep the cow."

Dawson squinted his eye approvingly at the cow—she had every mark of a good milker—and then looked appraisingly at Showalter.

"Well, Sam," he said, "turn about is fair play. You made a mistake yesterday; I'll make one today and just keep the cow."—Youth's Companion.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Druggists Arrested.
Dayton, Sept. 5.—Robert B. Bailey, a druggist near the Soldiers' home, and W. G. Haines, his clerk, suspected of trafficking in prohibited drugs, were arrested on charges preferred by Addison C. Johnston, a drug inspector. The arrests followed the death recently of Lincoln Allison and George Case, due to an overdose of drugs.

Auto Struck by Train.
Greenville, O., Sept. 8.—Ezra Baker, contractor of Arcanum, and Joseph Penny, a laborer of Greenville, in attempting to cross the Pennsylvania tracks in an automobile failed to hear an approaching train and were run down. Baker was killed instantly and Penny received severe bruises.

Motorcycle Racer Killed.

Boy Plays With Revolver.
Mt. Sterling, O., Sept. 8.—Harold Snyder, eleven, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Snyder, instantly killed himself here while playing with his father's revolver. A bullet from the gun entered his face just below the left eye.

Auto Bandits Escape.
Cleveland, Sept. 8.—Using an automobile as a means of transportation, a gang of robbers blew safes in two cages and a billiard parlor, secured loot estimated at between $1,000 and $2,000, and escaped.

Upon the Road.
Perhaps one of the best known puns is that put into the mouth of John Gilpin by Cowper. It will be remembered that, according to the poem, John Gilpin borrowed a horse from his friend to ride to Edmonton to celebrate his wedding day, but the horse had other plans and took the jovial Gilpin to the house of his friend, who, on seeing his ruffled condition, asked him why he had come. Gilpin replied:

I came because your horse would come,
And if I well forbode
My hat and wig will soon be here—
They are upon the road.

THE RULING PASSION.

Saving His Own Life Was a Strictly Business Proposition.

In the Wide World Magazine Malcolm Savage Treacher tells the story of a German mountain climber who did not forget to be economical even in the midst of deadly peril.

A party was crossing a glacier on the slope of Mont Blanc when one of the travelers called to the others to stop and listen. Strange cries came from the ice beneath their feet.

"Some one has fallen into a crevasse!" exclaimed one of the party. "His groans seem to indicate that he is already beyond help."

"We must do what we can in any case," responded one of the guides, and he began a long and perilous descent into what proved to be the bosom of a concealed crevasse. At the bottom they found the poor gentleman who had fallen. He was, however, quite unhurt, sitting comfortably upon a bench of ice.

"We've come to save you," said one of the guides.

"You save me?" answered the gentleman quite tranquilly. "How do you know I want to be saved?"

"Because you called to us for aid," said one of the bewildered guides.

"Perhaps I did," replied the German, "perhaps I didn't. You came anyhow. Now, what'll you take to rescue me?"

And before he would allow the guides to hitch him to the rope and drag him to the surface he compelled them to set down in writing the exact amount they would require for the performance of their life saving duty. He was a business man, whatever any one could say against him, and, moreover, he knew the guides of Switzerland.

WOULD END LABOR WAR IN COLORADO

Wilson Submits a Proposition to Operators and Miners.

SUGGESTS THREE-YEAR TRUCE

Appeal to Patriotism of Belligerents and at the Same Time Warns the Mine Owners That Federal Troops Should No Longer Remain Doing Police Duty in Strike Districts. Now Up to John D. Jr.

Washington, Sept. 8. — President Wilson submitted a plan for a three years' truce to all parties in the Colo-rado mining strike. The president urged the acceptance of this plan on patriotic grounds, alluding to the Eu-ropean war and the need that "all un-toward and threatening circum-stances be taken out of the life of the people of the United States." At the same time the president serves warn-ing on operators and miners that the federal troops have remained about as long as they ought to remain doing police duty in the strike districts.

This action by the president will again necessitate a decision by the Rockefeller interests as to whether they will make any concessions in the vital principles involved in the strike. Thus far John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has indicated a purpose of fighting it out to the very end.

The president points out that there are important public interests involved in the existing controversy aside from those of the two contending parties. The plan he submits was evolved by two representatives of the govern-ment who have studied the issues in the strike for several months with a view to finding a solution.

The plan contemplates establish-ment of a truce for three years, dur-ing which the state mining and labor laws shall be enforced, and the res-toration to employment of all striking miners who have not been found guilty of violation of the laws. Intimidation of nonunion or union men is to be prohibited and wage scales are to be posted at each mine. A grievance committee is to be chosen by the em-ployes of each mine which shall be entrusted with treating with the em-ployer when trouble arises. A com-mittee to be appointed by the presi-dent is to be the appeal body to which grievances that can not be otherwise settled are to be taken.

The president sent a letter outlining the government's plan to the presi-dent of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the chairman of the Victor-American Fuel company, the presi-dent of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company and the officers of the Unit-ed Mine Workers of America.

HOW TURNER FIRED A GUN.

An Impromptu Effect That Startled His Fellow Artists.

Turner's impromptu effects were at times consternating to his fellow paint-ers. Mr. Randall Davies, quoting from Leslie, gives in "Six Centuries of Paint-ing," Constable's experience in 1830, when he exhibited his "Opening of Waterloo Bridge." It was placed be-side a gray sea piece, by Turner, which lacked all positive color.

"Constable's picture seemed as if painted with liquid gold and silver, and Turner came several times while he was heightening with vermilion and lake the decorations and flags of the city barges. Turner stood behind him looking from the 'Waterloo Bridge' to his own picture, and at last brought his palette from the great room where he was touching another picture, and, putting a round daub of red lead, somewhat bigger than a shilling, on his gray sea, went away without say-ing a word. The intensity of his red lead, made more vivid by the coolness of his picture, caused even the ver-milion and lake of Constable to look weak. 'He has been here,' said Con-stable, 'and fired a gun.' On the op-posite wall was a picture by Jones of 'Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the Furnace.' 'A coal,' said Cooper 'has bounced across the room from Jones' picture and set fire to Turner's sea.'"

Next time Turner came in he glazed the scarlet seal and shaped it into a buoy.

Glazed Earthenware.

Glazed earthenware was long sup-posed to be of no more ancient date than the ninth century, but the discov-ery of glazed ware in Egypt, of glazed bricks in the ruins of Babylon, of glazed coffins and enameled tiles in other ancient cities proves that this is not the case. The Arabs seem to be en-titled to the credit of having intro-duced glazed ware into modern Eu-rope. The Italians are said to have become acquainted with this kind of ware as it was manufactured in the island of Majorca and gave it the name of majolica. The French de-vised their first knowledge from the Italian manufactory at Faenza and christened it faience.—London Satur-day Review.

Liszt's Rude Host.

High society has its crude person-alities, if a story in one of the magazines is true. At a dinner given to the famous pianist, Liszt, his host, Count Lu-dolf, right in the middle of Liszt's most exquisite playing, said in a loud voice, "If any one wishes to have a game of whist there are tables in the other room." Liszt, says the narrator, stopped short, but as no one moved he consented amiably to remain at the piano. The amount of wine that had been consumed by Liszt's host on this occasion is not stated.

Sarcastic.

Dr. Pilleu—My dear, sir, it is a mira-cle that you are alive today. Patient—Yes, that's what my friends said when I told them you were attending me.—Life.

ONE WAY TO WRITE HISTORY.

A Talk With Adam About Discreet Young Methuselah.

I have a book published in the early didactic period of the nineteenth cen-tury which illustrates a certain way of imparting historical information. It was written with the laudable inten-tion of making history interesting to people who didn't want to venture into the unfamiliar. The author thought that if the patriarchs were conceived of as New England selectmen their lives could be made as interesting as if they were New England selectmen.

And I am not sure but that he suc-ceeded. The book is divided into two parts, a conversation with Adam cov-ering the space of 930 years and an in-terview with Noah giving an account of the deluge and the other events with which he was familiar. They are represented as nice old gentlemen rather formal in their language and strictly orthodox in their opinions. Adam speaks hopefully of Methuselah, who, he says, "must be now about fifty-seven years old and is a discreet and well principled youth." He was very much disturbed over the radical views of the Tubal-Cains.

There is nothing in the book that would indicate that either Adam or Noah had been out of Connecticut.—S. M. Crothers in Atlantic Monthly.

ELECTRICITY IN RAIN.

The Drops of Moisture, as a Rule, Con-tain Positive Charges.

Rain drops are almost always charg-ed with electricity. The charge is of-ten positive, rarely negative. Many observers have measured the charge approximately and made it from 0.000,000,000,000,01 to 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter. Professor F. Herath of Kiel describes in the Revue Electricque the experi-ments by which he has measured them.

He received the rain on a fine me-tallic cloth twenty-five meters square, insulated and attached to a galvanom-eter in a cellar. The galvanometer reg-istered photographically. Among the facts he proves are these:

Rains with a constantly positive charge are much more frequent than those that change to a negative. The passage from a positive to a negative charge corresponds to a momentary cessation of the shower. The quantity of positive electricity brought by the rain is fifteen times greater than that of the negative. The positive currents in a steady rainfall are about 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter. The negative currents never exceed 0.000,000,000,000,001 am-peres per square centimeter.

Sympathy With Sufferers.

Probably nothing is more stimulating and genuinely tonic to sufferers, espe-cially those with chronic ailments, than the feeling that in spite of their own helplessness they themselves can still be helpful to others. The Shut-in so-ciety in this country has made life more bearable for many persons who are confined to their rooms or their houses. Nothing disturbs a certain class of patients so much as to be con-stantly in contact with those who are in good health and strength and whom they can scarcely help but envy. To be brought into touch with those for whom they themselves can feel is a precious source of consolation and up-lift. Pity is a luxury to be enjoyed, but no human being likes to be pitied or to feel that he is an object of pity. To be conscious of some advantage in one's situation over that of others is of itself an alleviation for many sick-nesses.—Journal American Medical As-sociation.

An Ornithological Curiosity.

Jane Ann had called, on her after-noon out, to see her friend Matilda. The latter's mistress had just pur-chased a parrot, and Jane Ann was much interested in the bird. "Birds is very sensible," she said; "you kin learn them anything. I used to work for a lady that had a bird in a clock, an' when it was time to tell de time of day it used to come out an' say 'Cuckoo' jest as many times as the time was!" "Go 'long! You don't say so!" said Matilda incredulously. "Yes!" replied Jane Ann. "And the most wonderful part was that it was only a wooden bird too!"—London Globe.

A Unique Symbol of Freedom.

A curious custom is observed in the village of Great Bookman, Surrey, England. When the wife of a trades-man goes off for the usual summer holiday to the seaside one or two ex-pert climbers ascend at midnight to the roof of the house and insert old brooms in the chimneys as a sign that the head of the house has the super-vision of the domestic arrangements in addition to his ordinary work.

Her Lack of Tact.

"Miss Soudsby has not a particle of tact."
 "What has she done now?"
 "The other evening when Mr. Jag-gies, who is notorious for not paying his debts, asked her to sing she went to the piano and sang 'Trust Him Not!'"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Source of His Talent.

"That big financier boasts that he can take every man's measure."
 "That's because he began life as a tailor's assistant."—Baltimore Ameri-can.

Old Dances In Old Times.
 In Edward Scott's "Dancing In All Ages" are some curious details about the dances of old England.
 "Joan Sanderson" was a "Jolly dancer" in Mr. Scott's definition, for before it was ended each lady had kissed all the gentlemen twice, and each man had been equally enterprising. Mary Stuart danced the "Volta," though "not so high and so disposedly" as Elizabeth. In King Charles's time people danced "Trenchmore," the "Cush-ion Dance," "Ominum Gatherum" and "Holte cum Toite."
 "All In a Garden Green," "Gathering of Peascods," "Lumps of Pudding," "Under and Over," "The Bath," "The Slaughter House" and "Have at Thy Coat, Old Woman," are dances not quite so old.

DR. A. H. NORCROSS ACCEPTS A POSITION IN CINCINNATI

Well Known Divine Who Is Superintendent of Zanesville District, to Become President and General Manager of the Methodist Home For the Aged at Cincinnati—Will be in This City Next Week.

Announcement has just been made that after the annual Conference in this city next week, Dr. A. H. Norcross, retiring superintendent of the Zanesville district and one of the best known divines in the Ohio Conference, will become president and general manager of the Methodist Home for the aged at Cincinnati.

This post is considered one of the most responsible in the direct gift of the Methodist Episcopal church. The institution is supported by the three Methodist conferences of Ohio as follows: Ohio conference, West Ohio conference and Northeastern Ohio conference.

DR. A. H. NORCROSS.
Retiring Superintendent of Zanesville District, Will be Head of Methodist Home in Cincinnati.

Dr. Norcross was selected from many, thereby attesting the high respect in which he is held by the dignitaries of the church. He is experienced in such work, having been president of the Pittsburgh college for women for ten years. For about eighteen years he filled the office of district or presiding elder.

Dr. Norcross was one of the youngest members of the church in Ohio to be appointed presiding elder. His first appointment came at the age of 29 years. He has also been superintendent of the Columbus district.

During his term in office the Methodist church in Zanesville district has experienced a tremendous growth the increase being close to 50 per cent. About $320,000 has been added to the material wealth. A number of the churches were in the flood of March 1913, but they have all been repaired and are now in first class condition.

Dr. Norcross went to Cincinnati last week to participate at the funeral services of the largest contributor to the home, O. J. Clifton. He donated the ground on which the home stands and which is valued at $50,000. Mr. Clifton and his wife have given $100,000 additional. Dr. Norcross will assume the active management of the home immediately following the Ohio conference, which convenes here next week. He will remain in Zanesville until that time.

VISITING TEAM BREAKS EVEN

Logan Wins in Ten Inning Contest and Departs After Evening Up With Athletics—Third Game Will be Played at Logan—Billy Hedgecock's Columbus "All-Stars" Here Sunday.

Despite the one-sided nature of the contest Sunday afternoon between the Washington Athletics and the visiting Logan baseball nine, fans who attended the game at Athletic park Monday afternoon were treated to two hours of as good sport as they have seen this year. A pitchers' battle with good fielding on both sides run the game into ten innings when two unfortunate errors on the part of the locals resulted in a victory for Logan. The score was 4 to 3.

The pitching of Linson throughout the ten innings is deserving of special mention. The fans were given an opportunity of seeing "Cork" at his best and did his work masterfully. Rannels starred with the stick. "Charley" has been making an enviable reputation with the club during the past few games and the cheers from the grand stand and bleachers which are coming to be a part of his entry into the batters' box are well deserved and not in vain.

The visitors returned home Tuesday and as the games stand even the rub will be played off at Logan sometime during the Athletics' barnstorming trip which begins next Tuesday. A full schedule for this trip has not been completed, but among other places games will be played at Nelsonville and Straitsville.

Next Sunday the Athletics will play here, the "All Stars" of Columbus. This team is considered one of the fastest in the Capital city and is captained and managed by Billy Hedgecock, former star catcher on the local team.

OBITUARY.

Charles Lawson Sexton, son of James and Harriet Sexton was born in Union township, Fayette county, O., September 5, 1872. Departed this life August 29, 1914, aged 41 years, 11 months, 24 days. He had spent the greater part of his life in this county.

He was a member of Company E, 14th O. V. I., serving nine months in the Spanish-American war of 1898 and always loved his flag.

He united with the Sugar Creek Baptist church in December 1900, under the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Medick. After moving with his family from the farm to W. C. H. he brought his letter to the First Baptist church of this city, but owing to his prolonged illness has been unable to attend only a few services in the past four months. He always tried to live the every-day Christian life.

He was united in marriage to Sylvia A. Hynes on March 21st, 1901, being always an exceptionally kind, loving and devoted husband and son, ever trying to present the bright side of life to those around him. He had been in failing health for several years, but could not be persuaded to give up his work until one year ago, then going to the Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, O., for treatment in the hopes of regaining his health, and later going to Florida where he and his wife spent the winter, still hoping he might receive great benefit from the warm climate and sea air and trying in every possible way to restore his fast failing health. Since the 14th day of June he has been confined to his bed nearly all of the time, but with all that tender and loving hands could do, with the combined efforts of many skilled physicians, together with the assistance of neighbors and friends, also his own bright, cheerful disposition, it all was of no avail, and though we loved him far beyond the expression of words, God loved him best.

Besides his bereaved and sorrowing widow and mother-in-law in the home, he leaves his aged mother, two brothers and four sisters. His father, one sister and one brother, having preceded him. Those living are William E. and Mrs. Dora Speakman, of New Holland, O.; Mrs. Mary Jones and Mrs. Jennie Bruce, of Bloomingburg, O.; Mrs. Lucy Thurston, of Marengo, O., and Andrew J., of South Solon, O., together with many other relatives, neighbors and friends are left to mourn the loss of one we loved so dearly.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank all of the neighbors and friends who so kindly and generously assisted us in the long illness and death of our loved one. Also for the deep love and sympathy expressed in all of the many beautiful floral tributes. Also Company E, for the beautiful and loving remembrance of their comrade. For all, accept our heartfelt gratitude.

Mrs. C. L. Sexton and relatives.

TEUTONS LOSING

250,000 RUSSIANS IN FRANCE AIDING BRITISH AND FRENCH IN CRUSHING BACK INVADERS

German Right Wing Swings Eastward Amid Desperate Fighting and the Allies Take Many Prisoners from Thinned Ranks of Foe.—Germans in Imminent Danger of Being Flanked.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 8.—A Russian army, said to number 250,000 men, is, according to the Rome Tribuna, in France. The Tribuna usually is considered well informed regarding Russian movements. Official confirmation of the report is refused at the Press Bureau.

Experts here are of the opinion that the Germans, who heretofore have been the outflankers, are in danger of being outflanked and of being compelled to accept a frontal attack from the allies, who now are on the offensive.

This titanic struggle, in which the combatants are tallied in millions is likely to ebb and flow for a week before decisive results are reached.

Great strategical importance is attached to the Russian capture of the fortress, Nicolaieff, in Austrian Galicia. It is situated at a junction of railroads and has strong bow shaped fortifications and entrenchments on both banks of the river Dniester to protect the railroad bridges. The population of this place is largely Polish. It includes 4,000 Jews and a garrison of approximately 10,000 men.

The news has been received here that the King of the Tonga Islands, in the southern Pacific ocean, has declared his neutrality. The Tonga Islands were in danger of starvation as their food supply from New Zealand was cut off until a ship was sent to the relief of the natives. The ship gave the King his first news of the war and the monarch promptly proclaimed his neutrality.

London, Sept. 8.—The public is waiting breathless, with the hope that the allies have finally taken to the offensive, but the cautious tone of the official communications issued from France indicates that the forward movement of the allies is only a feeler to ascertain the reason for the strange eastward swing of the German right.

No matter, however, what the forward movement may mean a decisive battle cannot be long postponed. Meantime the western valley of the Seine, recently overrun by Germans, has been cleared of the enemy and has been given a breathing spell.

The unexpected swing of the Germans has caused a readjustment of the line of the allies. The movement of the Germans was ascertained so promptly by the aeroplanes of the allies that abundant time was given to shift.

Another advantage enjoyed by the allies is the fact that their flanks are protected by the great fortresses of Paris and Verdun while in the German rear Maubouge is still held by the French despite the fall of three of its fortresses.

In the eastern war theater General Ruzsky's Stonewall Jackson tactics have been checked by the strong fortress of Przemyśl, but this delay will not prevent the general forward movement of the Russian forces along the border from Tilsit to Lemberg. The Russians consider it necessary, however, to capture Trzemyśl so that the Austrians may not have a single stronghold left in Galicia.

TEUTONS ARE FORCED BACK

Paris, September 8.—Violent encounters have occurred on the French center between Fere-Champenoise and Vitry-Le-Francois at the southern point of the Forest of Argonne. The French have fallen back nowhere. The Germans have lost ground.

ALLIES TAKE MANY PRISONERS

Paris, September 8.—French and English troops engaged in the battle now progressing to the east of the capital have taken numerous prisoners, including a battalion of German infantry and a company serving rapid fire guns. They also captured many guns.

TOO MUCH FOR FOE

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 8.—The leading military authorities of the city are convinced that General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, is at last holding at bay the vast German army of invasion. The worn-out troops of Emperor William, who may constitute an army totalling 750,000 men, are today encountering the relatively fresh soldiers of the French and British armies upon ground selected by the allies and in positions within easy reach of the supplies and reinforcements. The Germans are in a hostile country and at a distance relatively great from their home bases.

The invaders today are probably at their strength while the defenders of France, especially the British contingents, are being augmented steadily. The Germans are reported in Paris, unofficially, to have asked for an armistice to bury their dead and care for their wounded. This statement lacks official confirmation. It is further understood that the allies refused the request. The fighting on the long line to the east of Paris probably will last for a number of days; no quick and decisive outcome is expected.

The results of the encounters of the past two days are regarded as distinctly favorable to the allies and there is an atmosphere of cheerfulness at the French war office this evening.

250,000 RUSSIANS IN FRANCE

ROME, SEPT. 8.—ACCORDING TO THE ROME TRIBUNA THERE IS IN FRANCE TODAY A TOTAL OF 250,000 RUSSIAN TROOPS. THIS NEWSPAPER ATTRIBUTES EMPEROR WILLIAM'S PRESENCE AT METZ TO THIS CONCENTRATION OF THE RUSSIANS.

HERRICK OFFERS SOLUTION

Washington, September 8.—President Wilson took under consideration today a suggestion from Ambassador Herrick at Paris that the United States approach the powers in an effort to have their armies regard historic buildings, monuments and works of art as "international property." Ambassador Herrick cabled the suggestion after the diplomatic reports in France of several neutral countries had indicated their desire of their governments to support the project.

AUSTRIANS THOUSANDS DESERTING STRENGTHEN PARIS FORTS

By Associated Press.

Petrograd, Sept. 8.—Refugees and deserters from the armies of Austria in Galicia, according to information obtained in official quarters today, have told the Russian military authorities that their losses have been enormous. A number of Austrian regiments were decimated. The Austrians, according to these refugees, are fearful of an uprising in the crownland of Bukovina. There have been published here from individual newspaper correspondents, statements which confirm previous reports of the disorganization in the armies of Austria.

Paris, Sept. 8.—Several thousand reservists have been engaged since the outbreak of the war in putting the outer defenses of the entrenched camp in shape to resist a possible siege by the Germans.

The military governor has now decided to hasten the work and yesterday 5,000 excavators were mustered in and divided into squads and given blankets so they can sleep on the spot. They have been sent to the outer trenches.

FORTS FALL

Paris, Sept. 8.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Petrograd says that the strong Austrian forts at Nicolaieff and Mikolajow, situated in Galicia, about 25 miles southwest of Lemberg, were captured by the Russians on Sept. 5.

TO AID HERRICK

Washington, Sept. 8.—At the request of Ambassador Herrick, Assistant Secretary Breckinridge, who heads the American relief expedition in Europe, will, for the present, remain in Paris to help in the care of refugees there, and in arranging for their transportation to the United States.

PRESIDENT FIXES DAY FOR PRAYER

FRANCIS JOSEPH DEAD TWELVE DAYS, SAYS REPORT---RUSSIANS STILL ADVANCE INTO PRUSSIA

Many Days' Struggle Continues and Thousands Bite Dust—Belgians Unite With Russians to Fight the Germans—Allies Confident that Decisive Struggle is Close at Hand and Are Sure of Winning.

FRANCIS JOSEPH DEAD?

London, Sept. 8.—The African World, a weekly publication, has received information through what it regards as a reliable Austrian source to the effect that the Austrian emperor, Francis Joseph, died 12 days ago.

The news of the Emperor's death was suppressed in Austria-Hungary, the paper says, on account of the dangerous internal situation.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE STILL RAGING

London, September 8.—A dispatch from Rome to the Exchange Telegraph Company says: "A telegram from Vienna states that General Ruzsky who, following the capture of Lemberg executed a flank attack northward against the Austrians under General Auffenberg, the Austrian war minister, is today engaged in a desperate attempt to annihilate Auffenberg's army. The battle has already continued three days and is likely to continue several more.

BELGIANS JOIN WITH RUSSIANS

Paris, Sept. 8.—An agreement reached by the Belgian and Russian governments, according to the correspondent of the Havas Agency at Petrograd, authorizes Belgian reservists and recruits of 1914 to attach themselves to Russian armies.

The agreement referred to in the foregoing dispatch would appear to be in conformity with previous reports, notably today's from Rome, that Russian forces have landed in Belgium.

HOW U. S. TAX WILL BE RAISED

Washington, September 8.—Congress resumed work today after a brief holiday with a large amount of business awaiting action. Principal interest centers in the Emergency Revenue bill to provide $100,000,000. The committee was confronted with the task of raising $25,000,000, means having been agreed upon to raise $75,000,000 by increasing taxes on beer, malt liquors, domestic wines, soft drinks and similar commodities. Numerous suggestions were before the committee today for raising the $25,000,000 in revenues. They include taxes on automobiles, amusement tickets, moving picture films, magazines and weekly publications, circulars, railroad transportation, gasoline, whiskies and other distilled liquors, inheritance, incomes, tobacco, etc.

ALLIES CLAIM THE ADVANTAGE

Washington, September 8.—The French Embassy today received from Bordeaux under last night's date the following: "The German right wing (first army) on the Ourcq and Grand Morin have been attacked with advantage to our troops. The line of battle today became general. The Campine (Belgian) and the Limbourg have been evacuated. Transports of German troops from the west to the east are reported from several sources. The fact that at the time of the capture of Lemberg 12 Austrian divisions were annihilated is confirmed.

SECOND AUSTRIAN ARMY ON DEFENSIVE

Washington, September 8.—A dispatch to the British Embassy from the London foreign office states that the "Second Austrian army," operating in Lublin region, is suffering very serious losses and is now acting on the defensive and in places has retreated.

ALLIES' POSITION FAVORABLE

French Troops Strongly Supported by the British Soldiers Who Passed Through Paris Several Days Ago. Portion of German Forces Said to Have Retired Early in the Engagement—Essence of French War Office's Bulletin.

Paris, Sept. 8.—Taken in the flank by the Anglo-French troops, the German right wing is retreating all along the 120 mile line from Nanteuil-le-Haudouin to Verdun, where one of the most important battles of the war has been fought since Sunday, according to a war office bulletin.

Nanteuil-le-Haudouin is twenty-five miles northeast of Paris, in the department of Oise. Verdun, in the department of Meuse, is a great French fortress twenty miles from the German frontier. Unofficial advices from Berlin confirm reports of desperate engagements in these regions.

The number of men engaged is not disclosed by the war office, but unofficial sources estimate the total opposing forces at 1,000,000. The French troops were strongly supported by the British soldiers who passed through Paris several days ago.

The position chosen by the allied forces to give battle to the advancing invaders is declared to have been most favorable, having near its center the strongly entrenched camp at Chalons-sur-Marne.

The allies conducted their operations so successfully that a portion of the German forces were forced to retire early in the engagement. The Germans had reached the region around Coulommiers and Le Perre-Gaucher, respectively thirty and forty miles to the east of Paris, when the detachments covering the flanks of the main German army encountered advanced detachments of the allies, who drove them back.

It has been suggested by military experts that General Von Kluck's movement to the southeast was taken as a matter of precaution before the movement by the allies from the coast.

200 Lose Lives.

More than 200 men perished when the British cruiser Pathfinder was blown up by a mine in the North sea. Only her captain and fifty of the crew were saved of a total of 270 men on board. The mine was of such tremendous power that it literally blew the warship to pieces.

A Paris dispatch says the French and British armies, reunited after the long retreat of the left wing from Maubeuge to Paris, gave battle to the Germans and defeated them in the first stages of the conflict. The retreat of the Germans is being harassed by the French in pursuit, who are keeping up a constant artillery fire on the enemy.

The struggle which may decide the war, so far as France is concerned, rages from Nanteuil to Verdun. Nanteuil is twenty-five miles from Paris. Wounded soldiers were being brought into Paris.

The French war office gave out this statement: "A general action has started on the line through Nanteuil-le-Haudouin, Meaux, Sezanne and Vitry-le-Francois, and extending to Verdun. Thanks to the very vigorous action of our troops, strongly supported by the British, the Germans started retreating."

Germany's army has its back turned to Paris, say the French, and is being pursued by the French and British. The enemy is moving to the northeast, apparently to join the German center army.

BRITONS PREPARE

London, Sept. 8.—Remote as seems the possibility of a German invasion of England, preparations for such a contingency are proceeding ceaselessly. Every young man in the country is doing something to safeguard the nation. Those not already in the army or preparing to enlist are performing civil duties. Virtually every motorcyclist gives part of his time to the national service. Coast defenses are becoming stronger every day against attack from sea or air.

Nor do the women folk confine themselves to sewing shirts, knitting socks, making bandages and attending the wounded. Mrs. Haverfield, the wife of a British officer, for instance, is forming a women's volunteer corps for home defense. The members of the corps are drilling, rifle shooting and route marching.

GERMANS SAY CHINA TO BLAME

Peking, Sept. 8.—Protesting to the foreign office against its note of Sept. 3 to the diplomatic representatives in Peking, and referring to the transgression of Chinese neutrality by the landing of Japanese troops at Lungkow, Baron Von Maltzan, the German charge d'affaires, declared that Germany would hold China responsible for permitting Japanese and British soldiers to cross her territory.

ALL GERMANS UNDER ARMS

London, Sept. 8.—Arrivals in Ostend from Brussels report that many of the landsturm troops are withered old men, with white hair. This shows that Germany has called out every man able to bear a rifle.

KING'S OWN REPORTED SMASHED

Crown Prince of Germany in Their Midst.

London, Sept. 8.—A Boulogne dispatch says a telegram has been received from General Pau announcing a victory by the allied forces at Precy Sur Oise. The imperial guard under Crown Prince Frederick William is reported to have been annihilated by the British force opposing them.

The Evening News dispatch says: "A telegram has been received from General Pau announcing a victory by the allied forces under Field Marshal Sir John French, commanding the British, and General D'Amade at Precy Sur Oise, about twenty-five miles north of Paris. The allies were drawn across the northern line with the center at Precy. The English troops were on the left and the French on the right. The former had in front of them the imperial guard under Crown Prince Frederick William. On both wings, it is reported, the allies were successful. The German left was held by the French and retired to the north. The imperial guard, who were ordered to surrender, were annihilated by the British. It is reported that the crown prince was in their midst."

The British official bureau has received no confirmation of this message.

CRUISER CRIPPLED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The stranding of the British cruiser Warrior, reported to the German embassy in a wireless message from Berlin, remains a mystery. The message read: "British cruiser Warrior stranded probably as a result of a fight with the cruiser Goeben while escaping from the Bosphorus." The Goeben is a German vessel which, with the Breslau, escaped from British pursuers at the time the war began and sought refuge in the Dardanelles.

FORESIGHT vs. HINDSIGHT

There's a story in the little old story books for children about the brother squirrels which is always impressive.

It runs that one of the squirrels played all through the summer and fall and neglected to store up his winter supplies or gather the snug, warm lining for his nest.

The other played betimes, but also worked, and when the chill wintry blasts came and in their wake the hail and sleet and snow, he was prepared.

The playful, happy-go-lucky squirrel became a tramp and beggar, and during the long hard winter, while he suffered the pangs of cold and of hunger, he looked back on the days when he had played while he should have worked.

The squirrel with fore-sight snuggled into his warm nest with his store of sweet nuts, gathered because of thought of bad weather that was to come, and was happy and care-free. The other suffered and he learned his lesson.

SECOND AUSTRO ARMY CRUSHED

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—Crushing defeat for the second Austrian army between the Vistula and Bug rivers, in the Lublin district, Russian Poland, and the imminent fall of Przemyśl fortress, fifty miles west of Lemberg, Galicia, are announced in official bulletins. Terrific fighting between armies numbering 1,500,000 men on both sides has been taking place continuously in Lublin since the rout of the first Austrian army corps in Galicia Sept. 2.

The following official announcement was given out: "The Austrian army corps between the river Vistula and the river Bug are retreating with enormous losses. The resistance of the enemy has been broken. There are evidences of the possibility of a famine in Austria."

FIFTEEN INJURED

Fremont, O., Sept. 8.—Fifteen persons were more or less seriously injured when a heavily laden car on the Fosteria and Fremont Interurban line crashed into a crowded car ahead when the first car stopped to let off passengers at a road a mile south of town. Both cars were crowded with people en route to Fremont for the Labor day celebration. Among the injured are Mrs. Jess Earl, Fosteria; Scott Morris, Charles Glatz, L. D. McDonald, William Edmunds and Mrs. Amber Ray.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Whooping Cough.
In the absence of complications children having whooping cough should be kept in the open air for twenty-four hours out of twenty-four. They should be well clad—clothing heavy enough to prevent chilling and light enough to prevent the child from becoming overheated or tired by the weight of the clothing. As long as the child has fever or is weak it should be kept in bed. The bed should be placed on a porch, in a tent, on the roof or in the yard. The sides of the tent should not be put down except for the purpose of keeping out rain. The matter of the treatment of the disease is one to be left to the physician attending the individual case. The cause of whooping cough is found in the sputum of persons having the disease. During the paroxysms of coughing this infected sputum is thrown a considerable distance. The first thing to do to prevent the spreading of this disease is to prevent the sputum of the sick being taken into the system of the well person. The sufferer should be provided with a quantity of soft paper napkins. As soon as they are soiled they should be burned. Everything which has come in touch with the patient should be sterilized before it is allowed to come in contact with other people or things which may be handled or used by other people.

FANS, BASEBALL BRAND.

Are Most of Them Imitations of the Newspaper Cartoon?

My own belief is that the fan, as the baseball writers and cartoonist have depicted him, is a very rare being. To the extent that he does exist he is the creation, not of the baseball diamond, but of the sporting writer and the comic artist. The fan models himself consciously upon the type set before him in his favorite newspaper. It is once more a case of nature imitating art.

If Mr. Gibson many years ago had not drawn a picture of fat men in shirt sleeves, perspiring freely and waving straw hats the newspaper artists would not have imitated Mr. Gibson, and the baseball audience would not have imitated the newspapers. It is true that I have seen baseball crowds in frenzy, but these have been isolated moments of high tension when all of us have been brought to our feet with loud explosions of joy or agony.

But the perspiring, ululant fan in shirt sleeves, ceaselessly waving his straw hat, uttering imprecations on the enemy, his enthusiasm obviously aroused by stimulants preceding his arrival at the baseball park, is far from being representative of the baseball crowd.—Simeon Strunsky in Atlantic Monthly.

Poetry For Today

SEPTEMBER.
September of the dewy morn,
How many men have called thee
blest!
And what new hope in us is born
When summer's heat is dispossessed!
The hills refreshed with autumn rain
Are fresh and cooling to the sight,
And lo! the harvest moon again
Makes bright and glorious the night.
How sweet and bracing is the breeze
—how wonderful the morning light!

The maple leaves are turned to gold,
The sumach glows upon the hill;
And all the rhapsodies of old
The hearts of men are singing still.
The fields are beautiful with corn,
The earth grows mellow with the feast,
And on the liquid wings of morn
The sun comes riding from the East
Through all the centuries of time thy
wizardry has never ceased.

How far through stress and faint of heart
We came to happiness in thee,
And what sweet tears of gladness
start
For thought of comradeship to be!
The sunlight has a softer cast,
The woodland paths are lit with red,
And once again the birds are massed
In flying legions overhead.

September, thou art life again, when
all but hope in us was dead.
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

NEED OF FAT AS FOOD.

No Difference to the System From What Source It is Obtained.

The trees in a Syrian garden are an important and practically necessary part of the nutrition of the people. Combined with grain in the form of coarse bread, the tree products make a balanced and wholesome ration. For large elements of the population, at least one meal a day is commonly composed of bread and walnuts. The walnut is rich in both protein and fat, so that this combination virtually duplicates in nutrition our occidental sandwich of bread, butter and meat.

The oil to which the scriptural writers so lovingly referred is still important in that land, and the olive tree that produces it is almost as useful to the Syrian as the cow is to the American. The cow gives butter and drink, and the olive tree gives butter and food. When the workman on the Mediterranean goes home for a day's labor, he often takes a pocketful of olives and a piece of bread for his lunch. Remove butter, breakfast bacon and fat meat from our vocabulary, put olive oil in their place and we shall begin to think the thoughts of Mediterranean cooks.

Once cooks and palates are educated, the blood does not know the difference between the rich globules of fat that come to it. It is fat that the human system wants, and it makes no final difference whether it comes from butter, bacon, lard, olive, coconut, goose or bear. Fat is fat, once it is in our blood. The source from which we shall get this fundamental of nutrition depends in part upon our bringing up, but eventually our getting it depends upon the ease of winning it from our environment.—Atlantic Monthly.

Love's Faithful Haven

To Its Shelter Came the Erring One.

By MARIA CLIFFWORTH.

Mrs. Ferry sat upright in her favorite rockerless chair sewing a strand of braided rugs into a rug. Braided rugs were Mrs. Ferry's hobby.

To be sure, she and Anna Jane were the only people in the house, and visitors came very seldom, but to Mrs. Ferry that was no reason why she should keep her carpets covered.

The room was growing dim, for night fell early. This having to light up at half past 4 was a great drain on the oil can, but there are times when one cannot see even with two pairs of spectacles astride one's nose. She leaned forward and called:

"Anna Jane!"

Anna Jane came scurrying downstairs, stumbling over the braided rug at the top of the flight and almost losing her balance and tumbling over the braided rug at the foot.

"What have you been doing upstairs all this time?" Mrs. Ferry demanded, looking at her sharply. She had a notion that Anna Jane had been crying. "You'd better go to the postoffice right away if you're going."

Anna Jane took down her faded old jacket and limp hat. "Shall I light the lamp before I go?" she asked timidly.

"I guess not. I ain't in such a terrible hurry as you be to burn up the last bit of oil there is in the house. That's because I have to buy it, maybe."

She set her old mouth grimly. Anna Jane hurried into her things without another word.

There was really nothing to go to the postoffice for. She had gone four days now in succession without receiving anything from the hands of the impatient clerk. Yet, rain or shine, Anna Jane must make her daily pilgrimage to the postoffice.

It never occurred to her to rebel against this or any other task Aunt Hulda set her. Aunt Hulda had been very good, she thought, to take her in when she was left a little helpless girl without parents or friends.

She had a childish memory of the time Aunt Hulda came to get her. She believed Aunt Hulda had favored her sister Tilly more, for Tilly was older and far prettier.

Tilly married early and well. When she had been married five years she suddenly remembered Anna Jane and sent for her to visit her. Anna Jane went and had the time of her life. Tilly was very good to her, but inclined to make fun of her old-fashioned ways of dress and manner.

"Anna Jane," she said, "you've got to do your hair different and wear something besides that made over black dress of Aunt Hulda's. I'm going to get you a pink lawn, and when it's made I'll give you a party."

Anna Jane gasped with delight. The evening of that party and the first wearing of the pink lawn was the most memorable of her life, for that evening she met him. No man had ever before paid her any attention, and her little head was quite turned. He came to call the next evening, and the next, and the next. Of a sudden he had grown wonderfully friendly with the Martins, and Tilly understood. She worked with might and main to make the match, and when Anna Jane went home she was engaged.

Anna Jane was to be married from Aunt Hulda's house, and she set to work upon her simple trousseau. Aunt Hulda, grown suddenly generous, helped her, and Tilly sent $10 to buy the wedding dress. Anna Jane lived in a heavenly dream. He wrote every week, and she wrote back every week.

Then his letters began to lag, and at last came silence. Anna Jane wept and wondered. She could do nothing. Even Tilly could not for a long time find out what was the trouble. But when she did she wrote her sister.

"He's married!" she raged. "He married that Convers girl that was here at your party. She always wanted him, and now she's got him. They went to the justice a month ago and were married on the spot. I wouldn't believe it till I had it right from her own mouth, the impudent thing!"

Poor Anna Jane! She packed away her wedding things with a dazed look in her eyes that never after left them. Aunt Hulda sighed and signed.

She seemed to feel that Anna Jane was all to blame and treated her accordingly.

But there were times when the burden pressed more heavily upon her than at others, and tonight was one of them. Her voice trembled as she stood at the general delivery window and put the worn question:

"Any mail for Mrs. Hulda Ferry, please?"

The clerk snatched a package of letters from a pigeonhole and thumbed them hurriedly. Then he shook his head, and Anna Jane, with fresh humiliation upon her, turned away.

The storm had increased, and in the faint light the sidewalk was slippery. A big man with an umbrella, whose hat brim was turned down and whose coat collar was turned up, saw her.

"Look out!" he cried gruffly. He caught her by the arm and helped her. Anna Jane dropped her head, with a gasp of thanks. He held the umbrella la over her and walked silently at her side, shielding her generously from the flying storm.

When she turned the corner he turned it with her. It was a most unusual proceeding. Anna Jane was not used to receiving such courtesies. She wondered who he was, but she did not dare look into his face to see. Presently he spoke again gruffly:

"I'm looking for Mrs. Hulda Ferry. Can you tell me where she lives?"

Anna Jane jumped. "Why, yes, I can," she said. "I'm going right to her house now. I live with her."

"Oh, do you?" said the man. "Then I'll accompany you home."

He did not speak again, nor did Anna Jane. When they reached Mrs. Ferry's little low house Anna Jane went up the steps, and he followed.

He tore open his long ulster and threw off his hat.

"Anna Jane," he said, "don't you know me?"

Anna Jane tipped uncertainly, and he caught her and put her in a chair.

"I've scared you most to death, and I didn't mean to," he said regretfully.

"Anna Jane," he went on earnestly, "my wife's dead. I did a foolish thing by myself and a wicked one by you when I married her, but that's bygones and can't be helped now. I'm ten years older and a good deal wiser. And I've come to see if—if you won't forgive me and let me have another chance. It's the only thing that's of any account to me now on earth, for, Anna Jane, I love you."

He knelt down before her and put his head in her lap. Anna Jane sat like a stiff little statue. She looked down at the big head in her lap and the big man kneeling before her who asked her forgiveness and said he loved her.

She lifted her hand and let it fall upon his hair. He felt the touch and looked up.

"Anna Jane," he said, "if you don't believe me, if you can't trust me, I'm willing to pass the rest of my life trying to make you—if you'll only give me a chance."

A wan little smile went over Anna Jane's face, but it was like the first spring sunshine, and life and joy followed it.

"Anna Jane"—he began again. Slow footsteps creaked over the floor of the next room. The door opened, and Aunt Hulda, standing there, saw the strange spectacle of her niece in the arms of a stranger who seemed to have just been kissing her. Anna Jane's face was alight. She was no longer afraid of Aunt Hulda or of anything in the world. Her voice rang out with a glad little cry:

"Oh, Aunt Hulda, Joe's come! Joe's come!"

But it was left for Joe to make the necessary explanations.

Food In Flour Form.

Powdered eggs and powdered milk are being made by an apparatus that was really invented to stop the smoke nuisance in the great smelters of the west and dust nuisance in cement mills. The inventor, Dr. F. G. Cottrell, developed a system of using electric currents—shooting through the chimney gases, for instance—to make the tiny particles of matter settle to the bottom instead of sailing off as smoke. Lately his process is being applied to many industries, the powdering of eggs being the latest. The eggs are sprayed in a big chamber and the electricity, shooting through, causes the little particles of egg to fall on the floor as dust. The powdering of other foods is being undertaken also, so that almost all foods may be obtainable one of these days as a dry flour.—Saturday Evening Post.

No Nobler Work For Peace Than Vigorous Support of Neutral Rights

By ELLERY C. STOWELL, Assistant Professor International Law, Columbia University

IN this terrible situation it is for the United States to stand firm and resist all encroachments on neutral rights. If, as seems probable, Great Britain and her allies are able to bottle up the German fleet Great Britain and France will be ready to seize any excuse for interfering with consignments of food to Germany. Of course they are perfectly justified in capturing any shipment to blockaded ports, but ONLY BELLIGERENT PORTS MAY BE BLOCKADED, and we should still be free to ship supplies to neutral Italy, Holland, Norway and Denmark. If, however, the sea is strewn with mines it would take a venturesome vessel to make the latter trip. Unless the belligerents are very careful this situation may give rise to friction for control of the sea.

IT WILL NATURALLY BE DIFFICULT FOR THE UNITED STATES AS AN ISOLATED NEUTRAL IN THE PRESENT WAR TO SECURE ADEQUATE PROTECTION FOR NEUTRAL RIGHTS, BUT THIS MAKES IT ALL THE MORE IMPORTANT FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF HUMANITY. ANY VIOLATIONS OF NEUTRAL RIGHTS WHICH THE BELLIGERENTS MAY PRACTICE IN THIS WAR WOULD CONSTITUTE A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT FOR THE FUTURE. THERE COULD BE NO NOBLER WORK FOR PEACE THAN A VIGOROUS SUPPORT OF NEUTRAL RIGHTS. IF IN THIS GREAT STRUGGLE NEUTRAL RIGHTS SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO SINK TO THE LOW EBB OF THE NAPOLEONIC CONFLICT IT WOULD BE A STAGGERING BLOW TO CIVILIZATION, ALREADY SUFFERING FROM THE HORRORS OF THIS WORLD CONFLICT. IN THIS CRISIS IT IS A COMFORT TO FEEL THAT WE HAVE A POWERFUL NAVY TO PROTECT THE HIGHER INTERESTS OF MANKIND.

INVITATION EXTENDED FOR RETURN OF REV. F. E. ROSS

Resolutions Lauding Dr. W. D. Cherington and Inviting Return of Rev. F. E. Ross to M. E. Church Unanimously Adopted Last Night—Church Membership No. 1319 With More Than 300 Added During Past Two Years.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the official board of Grace M. E. church, held in the parlors of the church Monday night, a resolution was unanimously adopted requesting Dr. Cherington to use his influence with Bishop Thirkield to secure the return of Rev. Frederick E. Ross to Grace church for the coming Conference year.

Another resolution was unanimously adopted commending Dr. Cherington, the outgoing superintendent of the Chillicothe district, for his Christian character and successful administration, and expressing the deep regard in which he is held by the membership of Grace M. E. church.

Dr. Cherington has been superintendent of the Chillicothe district for the past six years, the full term permitted under the rules of the church, and it is with sincere regret that the district loses Dr. Cherington after the coming Conference in this city. His successor will be announced when the other appointments are made public.

At the board meeting Monday night the church work of the year was carefully reviewed and various matters of importance disposed of, including all of the business for the Conference year just ending.

The pastor's report showed 139 additions to the church during the year just closed, bringing the total membership up to 1319—an increase of considerably more than 300 members during the past two years, marking one of the greatest growths in the history of Grace church.

During his pastorate in this city Rev. Ross has proven himself an able and persistent worker to promote all lines of church work, and the increase in membership bears evidence of the activity which has marked his two years as pastor of Grace M. E. church.

Rev. Frederick E. Ross,

Whose Return as Pastor of Grace M. E. Church Has Been Asked by the Official Board.

Dr. W. D. Cherington,

Outgoing Supt. of the Chillicothe District, Commended by Church Board.

ANNUAL COUNTY CONVENTION OF THE WHITE RIBBONERS

Full of enthusiasm and zeal for the accomplishing of great work in the interest of the Temperance movement the W. C. T. U. annual county convention held session in the Presbyterian church, this city Tuesday.

Forty acting delegates with a large number of visiting delegates from both Fayette and Madison county were in attendance and it was throughout a convention of stirring interest.

Mrs. Alice H. Taggart, president of the County W. C. T. U., presided with perfect ease and the parliamentary decision, which influenced more than one in the audience to pronounce her the best parliamentarian that had ever presided at local woman's meetings.

The morning session of the convention opened with the singing of the crusade hymn and devotional exercises.

When the roll was called each woman who wore the white ribbon responded to the question, "Why am I here?" and the answers "duty and interest gave added inspiration to the day."

The report of the corresponding secretary, Miss Icy Allen, of Jeffersonville, was received with great applause and showed the unions all in good working conditions, with nearly 400 enrolled in the various unions of the county. One Y. P. B. was reported at Madison Mills and three L. T. L. at Madison Mills, Cooks and Good Hope.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Carrie B. Willis, was also gratifying, showing over $100 in the treasury after all expenses paid. The various departments made excellent reports.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Alice H. Taggart, of Jeffersonville; corresponding secretary, Miss Icy Allen, of Jeffersonville; recording secretary, Mrs. Laura Pine, of Sugar Creek; treasurer, Mrs. Carrie B. Willis, of Washington C. H.

The convention felt privileged to have in its sessions, Miss Mary Ervin, of Cedarville; secretary Loyal Temperance Legion, who is engaged in the work of enlisting children and young people for the temperance cause. She made a short talk in the morning and as we go to press is making the principal address of the day.

The afternoon's service opened with a memorial service in honor of Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens, national president.

NEW RESIDENCE IN CONSTRUCTION

Another handsome new modern home was started on Washington avenue this week, making the seventh house that is now in course of construction on that popular thoroughfare.

Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Clemans, who now live on a farm west of New Holland purchased a building lot from Walter Clark adjoining the Capt. E. A. Ramsey new home on the west. The contract for a modern 6-room house was immediately closed and work was started at once, the house to be completed by November 15. The deal was made through the real estate agency of Dalbey & Hitchcock.

FINE ADDRESS BY NATIONAL LECTURER

One of the ablest speakers before the public today, Mrs. Florence D. Richards, National lecturer and organizer for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and state president of the W. C. T. U., delivered a fine lecture that held the absorbed interest of a large audience at the Presbyterian church Monday night.

The address was a strong plea for state-wide and national prohibition and woman's suffrage, interspersed with amusing illustrations and parodies.

Mrs. Richards dwelt on the suffrage movement and its possibilities for the advancement of the cause of temperance.

She said that liquor advocates had pushed the vote on prohibition this year fearing that another year would mean that they must contend against the women vote. The speaker provoked smiles when she answered the argument that the vote of bad women would annul the vote of good women, by saying that the good women would attend to the bad women if the good men would attend to the bad men. With 1900 men and 7 women in the Ohio penitentiary, the women will have the easiest job. Mrs. Richards said that she visited, while in Colorado, sections from which it was thought a questionable vote would be drawn, and asked a number of women how they voted. The invariable answer was, "We can't vote under assumed names and we don't want to give our right ones." She only found one woman who said she had ever voted and 60 per cent were under voting age.

Mrs. Richards urged active work in the presidential campaign, saying it would require increase in the dry votes to overcome the desperate fight the liquor interests would put up.

Mrs. Richards has every day and every night taken until the day of the election and will speak all over the state.

The Presbyterian choir added to the pleasure of the evening by well rendered choruses.

In Social Circles

The last in a series of extremely pretty pre-nuptial affairs in compliment to Miss Nina Bonham was given by Miss Emily Tanzey Monday evening.

Three tables of guests engaged in a game of "500," after which the attractive young hostess served one of the bean suppers for which she has established quite a reputation. It was a delicious supper, out of the ordinary and merriment galore served as sauce for the pudding. As a climax to the supper a big wedding cake was brought in and amid gay laughter Miss Charlotte Dahl found the ring and Miss Prudence Culhan the dime. It was a foregone conclusion that the entire crowd was elected to matrimony as no one found the thimble.

A graceful basket of lavender and white asters adorned the center of the table.

At the close of the supper the bride-to-be was surprised with a "Kitchen shower" providing her with generous culinary equipment for the new home which is now in readiness at Oakley, a suburb of Cincinnati. Miss Bonham thanked the givers with becoming blushes. She was wearing a smart gown of dark blue crepe de chine with corded silk vest and Medici color of white, and plaited tunic. Miss Tanzey wore white embroidered crepe.

The guests included Misses Charlotte and Nina Dahl, Culhan, Pine, Jones, Lanum, Wright, of Wooster; Mrs. George Worrell and Mrs. Carl Mallow.

Mr. Frank Bonham arrived from Cincinnati Tuesday morning to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss Nina Bonham, Wednesday night. Mr. Scott Bonham comes up from Cincinnati tonight.

Mr. J. L. Draise and daughter, Miss Emma, were the guests of Mrs. S. V. Draise and family near Mt. Sterling Sunday.

Miss Lou Fultz, of Jeffersonville, one of the public school teachers, will make her home with her cousin, Mrs. W. W. DeWees, for the winter.

Miss McCloud, of Delaware, is one of the new teachers arriving for the fall opening of the public school.

Washington friends of Miss Clara Barr, of Greenfield, who has been traveling in Europe with a party this summer, are glad to learn of her safe arrival at her home. Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Barr met their daughter in Boston, Mass., last Tuesday. Miss Barr experienced many difficulties and the inconveniences felt by all Americans in Paris. The trip home was also one of anxiety, as the boat built to accommodate 900, was taxed to its utmost by 1300 passengers.

Miss Maude Chester, Domestic Science Teacher in the public schools, has returned from her home in Urbana and will make her home for the winter with Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe.

Misses Florence and Lily Flynn, of Chillicothe, were the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer the past two days.

Miss Elizabeth Sheen arrived from Montrose, Pa., Monday, to resume her position as supervisor of music in the public schools.

Mrs. James Green returned Monday evening from Chillicothe, where she was called by the illness and death of her sister, Miss Susan Butler, the deceased frequently visited her sister and has many friends in this city, who will learn of her death with much regret.

Miss Marie Grove has returned from Urbana to resume her position as art teacher in the public schools.

Misses Mazie Priddy and Margaret Willett, of Greenfield, were the guests of Miss Ethel Priddy over Sunday.

Messrs. John Fisher, Link Murphy and George Ireland, of Wilmington, are guests of Washington friends.

Miss Roxie Stinson has returned from a summer's outing at Cedar Point.

Mrs. James Morrow, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. W. Shoop, left Monday for her home in Waukegan, Ill. Miss Bess Shoop accompanied her sister back to Waukegan, where she has accepted the position of teacher in the public schools teaching the same grade she taught last year.

SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED LIFE

Charging her husband, Jesse Gray, with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, Gertrude Gray, through her attorneys, Rankin and Rankin, has filed suit for divorce, alimony and enjoyment of the defendant that he may not dispose of certain property in which she is interested, or which belongs wholly or in part to the plaintiff.

Plaintiff charges that in 1913 the defendant threatened to kill her, and that he had a gun in his hand with which to shoot her. At that time, claims the plaintiff, the defendant forced her and her son to leave the premises.

Plaintiff also claims that they had resided at the plaintiff's home, and that the defendant collected a large sum of money due herself, and has it in his possession, and that he has threatened to sell her property, for which she asks a restraining order be granted.

The Washington Meat Market will have fresh fish and oysters tomorrow.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED WHILE CONNECTING WIRES

Harry Ewick, Employee of the Washington Gas and Electric Company, Meets Sad Fate While on Top of Pole Making Splice at Leesburg—2300 Volts Pass Through His Body—Fellow Workman Risks Life To Save Companion.

Harry Ewick, aged 28, an employee of the Washington Gas & Electric Company of this city, met death in a horrible manner while working with wires of high voltage at Leesburg, late Monday afternoon, 2300 volts of electricity passing through his body as he clung to the deadly wires at the top of a pole while making a connection for the circuit leading to the Chautauqua grounds at Leesburg.

Ewick, whose home is in Peebles, Adams county, came to this city and was employed by the Washington Gas & Electric Company Wednesday of last week.

Monday morning, in company with Messrs Joe Gillespie and Earl Speaks, Ewick went to Leesburg to string a line from the main wires to the Chautauqua grounds at that place.

All of the work had been completed with the exception of the splice to connect the Chautauqua lines with the main line. Ewick climbed the pole where the splice was to be made, remarking that he would have the work completed within five minutes. This was at 4:15 o'clock.

He stripped the insulation from one wire and connected it with one of the highly charged wires, and then stripped the second wire and made the connection in safety.

"When I last saw him before the accident," said Mr. Gillespie Tuesday morning while discussing the tragedy, "he had just taken hold of the last wire to straighten it. A moment later I heard him groan and, looking up, I beheld him gripping both of the deadly wires and the smoke of burning flesh was pouring from his hands."

When he realized what had taken place, Mr. Speaks literally ran up the pole and at the risk of his own life instantly cut the wires, which were sending 2300 volts through his companion's body.

A moment later Ewick fell limply upon the cross arm, the strap about his body and the pole preventing him from falling to the ground. Mr.

Speaks, with the assistance of Mr. Gillespie and others, hurriedly lowered the limp form to the ground and for two and one-half hours two physicians worked over the lifeless form in a vain attempt to restore respiration and heart action. Their efforts were of no avail, as death had apparently been almost instantly.

The palms of the man's hands were burned in a shocking manner, but there was no other mark upon him. He had formed a short circuit but how he came to grasp the two wires when he knew the death that lay between them, is and forever will remain a mystery.

The remains were taken to the office of an undertaker, and the man's relatives notified. A brother, Jess Ewick, an employee of the Washington Home Telephone Company, went to the scene at once, and relatives from Peebles hurried to the scene.

The remains will probably be sent to his late home in Peebles for interment.

COUNCIL SESSION PROVES VERY SHORT

The meeting of council lasted just long enough for roll call and taking action on a motion to adjourn. Monday night, and the next session will be held Monday night of the coming week.

Members Howell, Veal and Whelpley were absent, but the real reason for adjournment was an opinion from the City Solicitor that there might be some question of legality of action taken by Council on a holiday.

Complaint was to have been made to Council over the slow progress of work on Main street paving, where the street has been closed for weeks while no work has been done on the street. Citizens residing on the street and on the adjoining streets which are tied up by the blocked thoroughfare, are chafing under the non-action of the contractor, who has been unable to proceed because it was impossible to obtain the brick. Work is expected to begin within the next few days, and will be completed before the opening of another month, it is announced.

THE FATE OF PARIS HANGS ON RESULT

Germans Must Be Checked In Battle Raging Near Paris.

OPINION OF MILITARY EXPERTS

English Strategists Believe That the Germans' Wide Turning Movement Is Planned to Cut Paris Off From French Eastern Army and to Cut the Latter to Pieces—Kaiser Himself in the Field.

London, Sept. 8.—Military experts believe that the battle now being waged on a line east from Paris will have an enormous effect on the possible German investment of Paris, as well as upon the outcome of the German campaign against France. Some of the more hopeful military critics believe that the strategy of this move means no more than an attempt to protect the German rear and open up a retreat through the Meuse district. But others, who bear in mind the supreme aggressiveness of the German campaign against France, believe that the move is planned to cut Paris off from the French eastern army, and then with that army surrounded on three sides, the west, east and north, to cut it to pieces.

If the army operating closest to Paris can roll back the allies' left wing and force a junction with the crown prince's army and that of Bavaria, which has been held on the defensive in Lorraine, it might be able to advance against the allies from the east and north and crush completely the French right wing. It is thought that the Germans realize that from a strategic standpoint the siege or even capture of Paris mean little if the allies are allowed to go free.

Apparent confirmation of this idea of present German strategy is contained in a dispatch from Berlin, which says that a battle now being fought in difficult country between Verdun and Reims is the deciding conflict as far as France is concerned. The dispatch says that the forces are about evenly divided, but that the French have the advantage of fighting from a defensive position of their own choosing.

Another fact which shows the importance that Germans attach to this battle is that Kaiser Wilhelm himself is now in that theater of war. Accounts disagree as to his exact whereabouts, but it is known that he is in charge and is at some point along the German eastern line. If Toul, Epinal and Verdun fall, regardless of whether the French are able to keep their way to retreat clear, it must mean a terrible blow to French hopes. If these powerful fortresses are able to repulse the Germans, however, it will give the French a chance to assume the offensive, which would have a helpful effect upon the fighting in the west.

ZEPATA NOT TO BE FOOLED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The Mexican Constitutional agency has issued this statement: "Advices received by the agency from Mexico City are to the effect that the commission that Carranza sent to treat with Zapata in regard to the latter giving allegiance to the new government has reported to Carranza that, while the rebel chief of the south is in sympathy and accord with Carranza, he does not desire to give his formal allegiance until he is certain that the program of agrarian reforms for which he stands will be approved by the Constitutionalists. "Zapata requested that Carranza adopt the plan of Ayala, which embodies a definite scope of action in regard to the land question, rather than the plan of Guadalupe, which is merely generic in its outline. Carranza in a reply to Zapata points out that he is bound to carry out the plan of Guadalupe, on which the revolution was based, and is not at liberty to adopt any other."

Upon the Road.

Perhaps one of the best known puns is that put into the mouth of John Gilpin by Cowper. It will be remembered that, according to the poem, John Gilpin borrowed a horse from his friend to ride to Edmonton to celebrate his wedding day, but the horse had other plans and took the jovial Gilpin to the house of his friend, who, on seeing his ruffled condition, asked him why he had come. Gilpin replied: "I came because your horse would come, And if I well forbode My hat and wig will soon be here— They are upon the road."

THE RULING PASSION.

Not a Very Big Bluff.

There is a story of a man from out of town who came to New York and fell not among thieves, but flirts. He listened to the tales of those who hailed him about the city, and they came at last to Spuyten Duyvil. The Palisades were pointed out to him, and he heard that the Hudson river scenery was the most beautiful in the world. He turned away and was not impressed. "But," they remonstrated, "those bluffs of the Palisades are 800 feet high!" "Well," he returned sadly, "I've learned to know that that isn't a very big bluff in New York."

Saving His Own Life Was a Strictly Business Proposition.

In the Wide World Magazine Malcolm Savage Trencher tells the story of a German mountain climber who did not forget to be economical even in the midst of deadly peril. A party was crossing a glacier on the slope of Mont Blanc when one of the travelers called to the others to stop and listen. Strange cries came from the ice beneath their feet. "Some one has fallen into a crevasse!" exclaimed one of the party. "His groans seem to indicate that he is already beyond help."

FRENCH ARE IN DANGER

Paris, Sept. 8.—The wide turning movement of the German flank near this city is believed to be caused by a fear on the part of the German general staff of attacking Paris while the French armies are intact. The danger of exposing their rear, in thus swinging around Paris in the hope of destroying the French army, is obvious, and the French are continuing to harass the Germans' front and rear. Shells fall continually in the rear of the swinging German army. The belief is growing that the present battle is of the utmost importance, particularly as regards the eastern lines of the French armies. If the fourth German army cuts off the retreat of the eastern French armies which have been holding the Germans in check between Toul and Epinal, two strongly fortified towns, it might be able to drive the Frenchmen over into Switzerland. In 1870 the Germans did this very thing when they defeated General Bourbaki and his army of 150,000 men near the Alsace frontier.

TEDDY TALKS AT GATE CITY

New Orleans, Sept. 8.—Colonel Roosevelt delivered the principal speech of his Louisiana tour here. He touched on no new problems of importance. There was no mention of the European war except one or two indirect references to abnormal conditions due in part to turbulence in Europe. He accused the Democratic party of being elected to office on one platform and then mapping out and following a policy entirely different from its pledges.

THREE DIE IN FLOOD

Kansas City, Sept. 8.—Many sections of Kansas City are under water because of the overflowing of Turkey creek. Three thousand homes, it is estimated, were flooded, and several hundred families were driven from their homes. Mrs. Sarah Wood was drowned, two men were killed when they came in contact with a broken trolley wire, a number were injured slightly and numerous thrilling rescues are reported. The total loss is estimated at about $1,500,000.

MRS. RICHARD CROKER IS DEAD

Dublin, Sept. 8.—Word was received here of the death in Austria of Mrs. Richard Croker, wife of the former leader of Tammany Hall.

EACH MADE A MISTAKE.

It Was, In Fact, a Case of "Turn About Is Fair Play."

Sam Showalter was having a sale of his surplus stock. To start the sale he led out a milk cow, one of the best of his herd, and told the auctioneer she was four years old. John Dawson, a long, leathery, weather beaten fellow with a shrewd eye, bid in the cow. He gave Showalter a check for the amount and said he would come for the cow the next day.

"I tell you, John," said Showalter when Dawson rode up the next morning to lead home his purchase, "I made a mistake yesterday. I said that cow was only four years old, but when I talked it over with the old woman last night I remembered that she is eight years old. It was another cow altogether that I had in mind."

"I didn't want to let a mistake like that go with a neighbor," continued Showalter, whose word was not usually accepted as entirely dependable in the community, "so I thought the fair thing to do was to tell you and just let you take your check back and I'll keep the cow."

Dawson squinted his eye approvingly at the cow—she had every mark of a good milker—and then looked appraisingly at Showalter.

"Well, Sam," he said, "turn about is fair play. You made a mistake yesterday; I'll make one today and just keep the cow."—Youth's Companion.

WOULD END LABOR WAR IN COLORADO

Wilson Submits a Proposition to Operators and Miners.

SUGGESTS THREE-YEAR TRUCE

Appeal to Patriotism of Belligerents and at the Same Time Warns the Mine Owners That Federal Troops Should No Longer Remain Doing Police Duty in Strike Districts. Now Up to John D., Jr.

Washington, Sept. 8.—President Wilson submitted a plan for a three years' truce to all parties in the Colorado mining strike. The president urges the acceptance of this plan on patriotic grounds, alluding to the European war and the need that "all untoward and threatening circumstances be taken out of the life of the people of the United States." At the same time the president serves warning on operators and miners that the federal troops have remained about as long as they ought to remain doing police duty in the strike districts.

This action by the president will again necessitate a decision by the Rockefeller interests as to whether they will make any concessions in the vital principles involved in the strike. Thus far John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has indicated a purpose of fighting it out to the very end.

The president points out that there are important public interests involved in the existing controversy aside from those of the two contending parties. The plan he submits was evolved by two representatives of the government who have studied the issues in the strike for several months with a view to finding a solution.

The plan contemplates establishment of a truce for three years, during which the state mining and labor laws shall be enforced, and the restoration to employment of all striking miners who have not been found guilty of violation of the laws. Intimidation of nonunion or union men is to be prohibited and wage scales are to be posted at each mine. A grievance committee is to be chosen by the employees of each mine which shall be entrusted with treating with the employer when trouble arises. A committee to be appointed by the president is to be the appeal body to which grievances that can not be otherwise settled are to be taken.

The president sent a letter outlining the government's plan to the president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the chairman of the Victor-American Fuel company, the president of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company and the officers of the United Mine Workers of America.

Glazed Earthenware.

Glazed earthenware was long supposed to be of no more ancient date than the ninth century, but the discovery of glazed ware in Egypt, of glazed bricks in the ruins of Babylon, of glazed coffins and enameled tiles in other ancient cities proves that this is not the case. The Arabs seem to be entitled to the credit of having introduced glazed ware into modern Europe. The Italians are said to have become acquainted with this kind of ware as it was manufactured in the island of Majorca and gave it the name of majolica. The French derived their first knowledge from the Italian manufactory at Faenza and christened it faience.—London Saturday Review.

Liszt's Rude Host.

High society has its crude personalities, if a story in one of the magazines is true. At a dinner given to the famous pianist, Liszt, his host, Count Ludolf, right in the middle of Liszt's most exquisite playing, said in a loud voice, "If any one wishes to have a game of whist there are tables in the other room." Liszt, says the narrator, stopped short, but as no one moved he consented amiably to remain at the piano. The amount of wine that had been consumed by Liszt's host on this occasion is not stated.

Sarcastic.

ONE WAY TO WRITE HISTORY.

A Talk With Adam About Discreet Young Methuselah.

I have a book published in the early didactic period of the nineteenth century which illustrates a certain way of imparting historical information. It was written with the laudable intention of making history interesting to people who didn't want to venture into the unfamiliar. The author thought that if the patriarchs were conceived of as New England selectmen their lives could be made as interesting as if they were New England selectmen.

And I am not sure but that he succeeded. The book is divided into two parts, a conversation with Adam covering the space of 930 years and an interview with Noah giving an account of the deluge and the other events with which he was familiar. They are represented as nice old gentlemen rather formal in their language and strictly orthodox in their opinions. Adam speaks hopefully of Methuselah, who, he says, "must be now about fifty-seven years old and is a discreet and well principled youth." He was very much disturbed over the radical views of the Tubal-Cains.

There is nothing in the book that would indicate that either Adam or Noah had been out of Connecticut.—S. M. Crothers in Atlantic Monthly.

ELECTRICITY IN RAIN.

The Drops of Moisture, as a Rule, Contain Positive Charges.

Rain drops are almost always charged with electricity. The charge is often positive, rarely negative. Many observers have measured the charge approximately and made it from 0.000,000,000,000,001 to 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter. Professor F. Herath of Kiel describes in the Revue Electrique the experiments by which he has measured them.

He received the rain on a fine metallic cloth twenty-five meters square, insulated and attached to a galvanometer in a cellar. The galvanometer registered photographically. Among the facts he proves are these:

Rains with a constantly positive charge are much more frequent than those that change to a negative. The passage from a positive to a negative charge corresponds to a momentary cessation of the shower. The quantity of positive electricity brought by the rain is fifteen times greater than that of the negative. The positive currents in a steady rainfall are about 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter. The negative currents never exceed 0.000,000,000,000,001 amperes per square centimeter.

Sympathy With Sufferers.

Probably nothing is more stimulating and genuinely tonic to sufferers, especially those with chronic ailments, than the feeling that in spite of their own helplessness they themselves can still be helpful to others. The Shut-in society in this country has made life more bearable for many persons who are confined to their rooms or their houses. Nothing disturbs a certain class of patients so much as to be constantly in contact with those who are in good health and strength and whom they can scarcely help but envy. To be brought into touch with those for whom they themselves can feel is a precious source of consolation and uplift. Pity is a luxury to be enjoyed, but no human being likes to be pitied or to feel that he is an object of pity. To be conscious of some advantage in one's situation over that of others is of itself an alleviation for many sicknesses.—Journal American Medical Association.

An Ornithological Curiosity.

Jane Ann had called, on her afternoon out, to see her friend Matilda. The latter's mistress had just purchased a parrot, and Jane Ann was much interested in the bird. "Birds is very sensible," she said; "you kin learn them anything. I used to work for a lady that had a bird in a clock, an' when it was time to tell de time of day it used to come out an' say 'Cuckoo' jest as many times as the time was." "Go 'long! You don't say so!" said Matilda incredulously. "Yes!" replied Jane Ann. "And the most wonderful part was that it was only a wooden bird too!"—London Globe.

A Unique Symbol of Freedom.

A curious custom is observed in the village of Great Bookman, Surrey, England. When the wife of a tradesman goes off for the usual summer holiday to the seaside one or two expert climbers ascend at midnight to the roof of the house and insert old brooms in the chimneys as a sign that the head of the house has the supervision of the domestic arrangements in addition to his ordinary work.

Her Lack of Tact.

"Miss Soulsby has not a particle of tact."
"What has she done now?"
"The other evening when Mr. Jagles, who is notorious for not paying his debts, asked her to sing she went to the piano and sang 'Trust Him Not!'"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Source of His Talent.

"That big financier boasts that he can take every man's measure."
"That's because he began life as a tailor's assistant!"—Baltimore American.

Old Dances In Old Times.

In Edward Scott's "Dancing In All Ages" are some curious details about the dances of old England.

"Joan Sanderson" was a "Jolly dance" in Mr. Scott's definition, for before it was ended each lady had kissed all the gentlemen twice, and each man had been equally enterprising. Mary Stuart danced the "Volta," though "not so high and so disposedly" as Elizabeth. In King Charles' time people danced "Trenchmore," the "Cushion Dance," "Omnium Gatherum" and "Holte cum Tote."

"All in a Garden Green," "Gathering of Peascods," "Lumps of Pudding," "Under and Over," "The Bath," "The Slaughter House" and "Have at Thy Coat, Old Woman," are dances not quite so old.

DR. A. H. NORCROSS ACCEPTS A POSITION IN CINCINNATI

Well Known Divine Who Is Superintendent of Zanesville District, to Become President and General Manager of the Methodist Home For the Aged at Cincinnati—Will be in This City Next Week.

Announcement has just been made that after the annual Conference in this city next week, Dr. A. H. Norcross, retiring superintendent of the Zanesville district and one of the best known divines in the Ohio Conference, will become president and general manager of the Methodist Home for the aged at Cincinnati.

This post is considered one of the most responsible in the direct gift of the Methodist Episcopal church. The institution is supported by the three Methodist conferences of Ohio as follows: Ohio conference, West Ohio conference and Northeastern Ohio conference.

DR. A. H. NORCROSS.
Retiring Superintendent of Zanesville District, Will be Head of Methodist Home in Cincinnati.

Dr. Norcross was selected from many, thereby attesting the high respect in which he is held by the dignitaries of the church. He is experienced in such work, having been president of the Pittsburg college for women for ten years. For about eighteen years he filled the office of district or presiding elder.

Dr. Norcross was one of the youngest members of the church in Ohio to be appointed presiding elder. His first appointment came at the age of 23 years. He has also been superintendent of the Columbus district.

During his term in office the Methodist church in Zanesville district has experienced a tremendous growth the increase being close to 50 per cent. About $320,000 has been added to the material wealth. A number of the churches were in the flood of March 1913, but they have all been repaired and are now in first class condition.

Dr. Norcross went to Cincinnati last week to participate at the funeral services of the largest contributor to the home, O. J. Clifton. He donated the ground on which the home stands and which is valued at $50,000. Mr. Clifton and his wife have given $100,000 additional. Dr. Norcross will assume the active management of the home immediately following the Ohio conference, which convenes here next week. He will remain in Zanesville until that time.

Another game has been arranged for next Monday evening. Two or three other teams are formulating and several are expected to be in the field by next week.

VISITING TEAM BREAKS EVEN

Logan Wins in Ten Inning Contest and Departs After Evening Up With Athletics—Third Game Will be Played at Logan—Billy Hedgecock's Columbus "All-Stars" Here Sunday.

Despite the one-sided nature of the contest Sunday afternoon between the Washington Athletics and the visiting Logan baseball nine, fans who attended the game at Athletic park Monday afternoon were treated to two hours of as good sport as they have seen this year. A pitchers' battle with good fielding on both sides ran the game into ten innings when two unfortunate errors on the part of the locals resulted in a victory for Logan. The score was 4 to 3.

The pitching of Linson throughout the ten innings is deserving of special mention. The fans were given an opportunity of seeing "Cork" at his best and did his work masterfully. Runkles started with the stick. "Charley" has been making an enviable reputation with the club during the past few games and the cheers from the grand stand and bleachers which are coming to be a part of his entry into the batters' box are well deserved and not in vain.

The visitors returned home Tuesday and as the games stand even the rub will be played off at Logan sometime during the Athletics' barnstorming trip which begins next Tuesday. A full schedule for this trip has not been completed, but among other places games will be played at Nelsonville and Straitsville.

Next Sunday the Athletics will play here, the "All Stars" of Columbus. This team is considered one of the fastest in the Capital city and is captained and managed by Billy Hedgecock, former star catcher on the local team.

OBITUARY.

Charles Lawson Sexton, son of James and Harriet Sexton was born in Union township, Fayette county, O., September 5, 1872. Departed this life August 29, 1914, aged 41 years, 11 months, 24 days. He had spent the greater part of his life in this country.

He was a member of Company E, 14th O. V. I., serving nine months in the Spanish-American war of 1898 and always loved his flag.

He united with the Sugar Creek Baptist church in December 1900, under the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Medick. After moving with his family from the farm to W. C. H. he brought his letter to the First Baptist church of this city, but owing to his prolonged illness has been unable to attend only a few services in the past four months. He always tried to live the every-day Christian life.

He was united in marriage to Sylvia A. Hynes on March 21st, 1901, being always an exceptionally kind, loving and devoted husband and son, ever trying to present the bright side of life to those around him. He had been in failing health for several years, but could not be persuaded to give up his work until one year ago, then going to the Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, O., for treatment in the hopes of regaining his health, and later going to Florida where he and his wife spent the winter, still hoping he might receive great benefit from the warm climate and sea air and trying in every possible way to restore his fast failing health. Since the 14th day of June he has been confined to his bed nearly all of the time, but with all that tender and loving hands could do, with the combined efforts of many skilled physicians, together with the assistance of neighbors and friends, also his own bright, cheerful disposition, it all was of no avail, and though we loved him far beyond the expression of words, God loved him best.

Besides his bereaved and sorrowing widow and mother-in-law in the home, he leaves his aged mother, two brothers and four sisters. His father, one sister and one brother, having preceded him. Those living are William E. and Mrs. Dora Speakman, of New Holland, O.; Mrs. Mary Jones and Mrs. Jennie Bruce, of Bloomingburg, O.; Mrs. Lucy Thurston, of Marengo, O., and Andrew J., of South Solon, O., together with many other relatives, neighbors and friends are left to mourn the loss of one we loved so dearly.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank all of the neighbors and friends who so kindly and generously assisted us in the long illness and death of our loved one. Also for the deep love and sympathy expressed in all of the many beautiful floral tributes. Also Company E, for the beautiful and loving remembrance of their comrade. For all, accept our heartfelt gratitude.
Mrs. C. L. Sexton and relatives.
